Work Ordered Begun at Once On 45,000-Ton U. S. Warships

20 Other Fighting Ships Will be Started by Navy ARMY ALSO ACTS

Moves to Provide Help for Allies and to Bol- ster Defenses

Washington—(AP)—The navy announced today that work was ordered started on two new 45,000-ton battleships and 20 other warships and auxiliaries last night,
within an hour after President Roosevelt signed the navy's $1,400-
000,000 appropriation act.

The two battleships were assigned to the New York and Philadelphia navy yards, respectively, and the other vessels were divided between government and commercial yards. The contracts for nine warships assigned to commercial shipbuilding plants had been negotiated while final action on the appropriation was awaited.

The 22 ships will cost more than $327,000,000 to complete, it was estimated.

The speed with which the navy acted found its army counterpart
in measures which were said to be designed both to strengthen defenses and furnish substantial assistance to the British and French allies.

Will Release Planes

A group of 93 airplanes and millions of dollars worth of munitions were being made available to the allies by the army under the government's "trade-in" plan of aid.

The 93 warplanes, Northrop attack ships, were being concentrated at Houlton, Maine, on the Canadian border. The Douglas Aircraft Corporation of Burbank, Calif., successor to the Northrop company,
was reported to have agreed to accept them in payment on new planes to be delivered later to the army.

The concentration at Houlton
was said to have been decided upon as the most direct way of getting the ships, which are six or seven years old, to the allies.

The White House reported that the army was turning its reserve manufacturing equipment over to private industry for the "immediate production of sizeable quantities of smokeless powder, ammonia and small arms ammunition."

Trade in Munitions

Previously it had been disclosed that $37,600,000 worth of surplus munitions had been tentatively traded in to the U. S. Steel Export company, by which it would be resold.

The army's reserve manufacturing equipment was described by officials as having cost between $3,000,000 and $10,000,000. It was acquired in recent years as part of the war department's industrial mobilization plans and it will be used by a relatively small number of firms having allied munitions orders.

Their employment of this machinery, it was estimated, will speed up deliveries on the allied orders by two or three months
while expanding the nation's capacity to produce munitions.

"Aid for the allies" passed from the slogan stage to a program of action today as congress tackled the job of implementing President Roosevelt's pledge with munitions for the men on the firing lines and money for hapless refugees.

Take Short Cuts

Leaders on Capitol Hill resorted to legislative short cuts, working the provisions for assistance into the $5,021,619,822 bill of national preparedness bills now in the final conference stages.

Extension of the European combat zone to blanket the entire Mediterranean was ordered by the president, ending American-borne maritime commerce with Italy. Mr. Roosevelt gave fresh emphasis to his views by endorsing a "stop Hitler
now" movement.

Both senate and house responded yesterday to the call the chief executive sounded Monday at Charlottesville, Va., for material aid to

False Economy?

We've known women who will search all over town to save a few pennies on soap,
only to stop in a hat store and nonchalantly buy a $20 hat.
There are men who kick like fury at the light bill who think nothing of spending $50

EX-NAVY PLANES GET WAR PAINT FOR ALLIES

These warplanes, formerly owned by the United States navy, are shown as they were painted with allied war colors before their shipment to battle areas overseas. Planes at right are camouflaged and ready for

Propose 4-Year High School to Relieve Grades

Franklin Parents Suggest Transfer of Frosh to New Building

Abolishment of the junior high school system to alleviate crowded grade school conditions was proposed at a meeting of the board of education at Morgan school last night by a committee representing the Franklin school Parent-Teacher club, which last month declared that present facilities for Fourth and Sixth grade pupils are inadequate and requested the board to take immediate steps to remedy the situation.

In advancing the idea of transferring ninth grade students to the senior high school, I. W. Kersten said "maybe we can't afford the 3-3-6 plan and should use the full capacity of the new high school."

Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, supported a return to the 8-4 plan because it "would spoil a setup worked out psychologically over years of experience which have shown it to be the best grouping." He said there are now 1,400 high school students and another 500
ninth graders would exceed the school's capacity of 1,800.

Following up their May visit to the board, the committee went over ground previously covered and asked what had been done since the last meeting. In reply, Mr. Rohan

Manslaughter Trial Jury Completed in Court at Green Bay

Green Bay—(AP)—A circuit court jury of ten men and three women
was chosen today to try Loretta Van Rite, 25-year-old domestic, on a first degree manslaughter charge growing out of the death of her illegitimate child.

State and defense counsel agreed on the jury only after examining 101 talesmen.

Immediately after selection of the jury, Allan V. Classon, chief of defense counsel, challenged a confession which the state alleges the Green Bay police had obtained from the young woman. Classon said that he had not seen the confession and that it may have been obtained under duress.

The jury was excused and Judge Henry Grass ordered a hearing on the facts relative to the purported confession. Detective Lieutenant Otto Cronce testified that coercion was not used in obtaining it.

He was on the witness stand at the noon recess.

American Ship Drops Anchor in Galway Bay

Galway, Ireland—(AP)—The United States steamer Washington, carrying refugees from Europe to America, dropped anchor in Galway bay at 6:35 p. m. (11:35 a. m., C.S.T.)
tonight.

The anchorage of the Washington, which was stopped on its way from Lisbon to Galway by a German submarine, was about seven miles from Galway city.

Berlin—(AP)—It was a German submarine which stopped the United States liner Washington at dawn yesterday on its refugee-carrying European voyage, authorized German sources disclosed today.

These informants said the submarine learned that the liner was on a northern course, headed for Ireland.

The German government was said to have been advised that the ship was going to Bordeaux, France,
and other ports and that Germany had not been told until later in the day that she would call at Ireland.

Beloit Population Reported at 25,041

Racine—(AP)—The area census office announced today that a revision of its tabulation of Beloit residents revealed the city's population on April 1, 1940, was 25,041. The preliminary figure was 23,720.

The Racine Association of Commerce declared today that as the result of a three-day campaign, 115
names have been added to the Racine population count. The preliminary report gave Racine 27,152.

Turkey Prepares for Defense Of Nation but Delays Action On Italy's War Declaration

Ankara—(AP)—The Turkish government has decided to take no immediate action as a result of Italy's entry into the war but to concentrate on preparations for defense of the country, informed sources said
tonight.

It was indicated that a communique to this effect would be issued shortly.

The informants emphasized, however, that the Turkish government's attitude did not mean that Turkey was retreating from her engagements with Britain and France but merely was awaiting developments.

Turkey has mutual assistance
pacts with the western European allies obligating her to fight beside

them in the event of an act of aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean area. She is exempted specifically from any obligation to fight Soviet Russia.

ENVOY ENTERS ITALY

Rome—(AP)—Soviet Russia's ambassador to Italy, Nicolai Gorelchin, entered Italy today from Yugoslavia en route to Rome to assume his post, marking the resumption of normal diplomatic relations between Rome and Moscow.

ber before he had presented his credentials, following Italian student demonstrations against Russia, then at war with Finland.

Bucharest—(AP)—All Rumanian
maritime traffic in the Black sea and the Mediterranean has been suspended by government order.
Ships were barred from leaving ports and any away at the time were ordered to return immediately.

"War conditions in the Mediterranean" were given as the reason for the order.

Princess Juliana and Two Children Go to 'Rural Vacation Spot'

Ottawa—(AP)—Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, her two small children and royal retinue
were en route today to an unnamed
"rural vacation spot," instead of to Quebec as originally expected.

The royal party will reside at a vacation resort until after the arrival of Canada's new governor general, the earl of Athlone, and his wife, Princess Alice, at this capital city.

Later, Princess Juliana will visit
the Athlones here.

The crown princess arrived yesterday to take refuge in Canada for the announced purpose of safeguarding the continuance of the royal dynasty.

Foresters Pick Racine For Convention in 1941

Wausau—(AP)—Racine was selected as the 1941 convention city of the Wisconsin state court of the Catholic Order of Foresters as more than 200 delegates closed their 2-day meeting here yesterday by re-electing all officers.

The men elected were W. A. Grotz of Berlin, chief ranger; A. X. Un-hoefer of Colby, vice chief ranger;
D. F. Ryan of Milwaukee, secretary;
John J. Brennan of Milwaukee,
treasurer; and R. J. Klein of Sun
Prairie, Louis C. Specht of La Crosse, and John Crevecoeur of De Pere, trustees.

Closing resolutions approved the appointment of Myron Taylor as President Roosevelt's personal representative to the Vatican, and condemned indecent billboard advertising and literature.

Refugees Arriving in Paris From Battle Zone But Capital Is Deserted by Half of Residents

Paris—(AP)—"Gay Paree" was a half-empty shell today, quiet itself
as the sound of battle reached its streets.

Instead of the fashionable tourists and other customers usually arriving at this time of year to patronize world-famous dressmakers
and milliners, refugees were arriving in droves from battle-torn northern France.

The dressmakers themselves had packed up and left. The government was gone and the newspapers were gone. Subway trains were running, but in restricted numbers.
Taxis were rare. Some food shops were open, but most closed.

Automobiles were streaming out of the capital packed with civilians.
Others wishing to leave hoped for restoration of train service. Poorer people walked. Most people who had transportation of any sort had gone.

Electricity, water and gas were still available, but not a light burning in the streets at night.

Germans Claim They are Dozen Miles from Paris; Battle Raging on Marne

Troops Move To Encircle French Capital

Match Marne Drive With Push Against Seine River

Paris—(AP)—A new battle of the Marne was being fought today with all the fury of modern war as the German blitzkrieg legions poured their full man-and-machine-power against the defenders of Paris.

As in 1914, the fighting on this historic river east of the capital was for the city itself, but this time the Germans were matching the Marne drive with a similar push against the Seine river west of Paris.

The Germans apparently were holding back their center forces directly to the north in an attempt to encircle the capital.

This morning's high command
communique reported that the Germans were smashing toward the historic cathedral city of Reims, 80 miles northeast of Paris, with "powerful forces comprising two armored divisions."

The Germans already had driven southward between Reims and the capital to reach the Marne.

No Major Changes

The fighting came within 35 or 40 miles of Paris on each side as the Germans tried to push out encircling claws.

"The battle continues," said the morning communique. "The situation is without important change on the entire front."

This meant that fighting was continuing with furious intensity along a line of more than 200 miles.

Residents of the northwestern
part of Paris reported last night that they could see the flashes of the big guns and hear their roar.

As the battle for Paris appeared to be increasing in intensity daily,
with the invaders constantly pouring new men into the fight, the capital itself was emptying.

Normal activity was at a standstill, and most of the people to be seen on the streets were refugees from the north streaming through Paris for regions still farther from the battle.

The outskirts of Paris were raided several times yesterday by German bombers. Railroad service out of the capital was suspended, bottling up refugees who came from the north.

Allied Navies Cut Off Italy From Her East African Empire

Alexandria, Egypt—(AP)—The allies
today choked off Italy's communications with her East African empire
by blockading the Suez canal against Italian shipping with a strong concentration of warships.

Alexandria and the rest of Egypt
were constantly alert for the first sign of an Italian air attack following the British bombing of Tripoli, Bengasi and other main airbases
in Libya and air attacks on the Italian Somaliland and Ethiopian frontiers.

The failure of the Italians immediately to retaliate led to belief that the British attacks had destroyed
a considerable number of Italian planes, hangars, fuel supplies and munitions dumps.

There was no official information to indicate when the British might start a land offensive against Italy's African colonies.

Grand Admiral Erich Raeder of Germany was reported assuming an active part in the direction of Italian naval operations.

Rome Reports Allied Attacks On Turin and Milan and Also Along Coast in Northern Italy

London—(AP)—Heavy bombers operating from the British Isles have attacked military objectives at Turin and Genoa, both in Italy, the air ministry announced tonight.

Rome—(AP)—Allied air attacks against the important cities of Turin
and Milan as well as other points
were reported authoritatively today
along with advices that enemy action had occurred along the Ligurian coast in northern Italy.

Particularly heavy anti-aircraft firing was reported on the outskirts of Milan, indicating that the heaviest air attack had come there.

Both at Turin and Milan the anti-aircraft fire continued for more than an hour.

Italian operations against the French and British were kept much more secret than those of Germany.

The first communique issued by the Italian high command reported only yesterday's bombardment of Malta and the fight with British planes which Britain said bombed air fields in Libya.

The high command said the attack on Malta was begun at dawn
yesterday and resumed at sunset.
All Italian planes were said to have returned to their bases.

Except for these aerial combats,
the first day of war for Italy apparently was devoted largely to the deployment of forces at various points where troops took up previously prepared positions.

The communique made no mention of actual fighting by land or naval forces.

Announcement that the air force
had gone into action came after a

Wheeler Won't Back 'War Party'

Montanan Says He Will 'Break' With Democrats If They Favor Conflict

Washington—(AP)—Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) declared today in the senate he would "break with the Democratic party" if it became a "war party" and added that he would not support any presidential candidate "who is going to try to get us into this war."

"I don't want to have to break
with the administration," Wheeler told his colleagues. "I don't want to have to break with the Democratic party, but if it becomes necessary to break with the Democratic party, I shall break with it, if it becomes a war party."

"I'm not going to support any candidate for president who's going to try to get us into this war," Wheeler, who differed sharply
with the administration over President Roosevelt's supreme court reorganization plan, has more recently been reported on friendly terms with the president.

He made his assertion today after Senator Holt (D-W. Va.) had asserted that the sale of army and navy equipment to the allies had been accomplished "under subterfuge and hypocrisy."

Also today Senator Connally (D-Texas) declared that CCC enrollees
"should have had military training
from the very beginning" and urged the senate to make it available from now on.

He argued in behalf of a controversy-raising proposal to amend the $1,073,548,916 relief bill by providing permission for the president to order elementary military training for CCC boys who desired it.

night during which the war was brought home to Rome by the shrilling of air raid sirens and the clamping down of defense measures.

The alarm came at 1:40 a. m. (5:40
p. m. C.S.T. Tuesday), but whether enemy planes actually flew over the city could not be determined.

(British reports told of Italian air raids on Malta; advices reaching Geneva said Crown Prince Umberto planned to throw his Italian shock troops against the French in the southern maritime Alps; and the Swiss telegraphic agency reported

British Aerial War Extended to Southern Africa

Fliers Meet Enemy in Widely Separated Parts of World

BULLETIN

London—(AP)—The air ministry announced the Royal Air Force in a 10-minute action, supporting the allied armies resisting the right wing of the German thrust, dropped high explosive and incendiary bombs at the rate of more than 100 a minute.

London—(AP)—Britain's war in the air was extended today from the Land of the Midnight Sun to equatorial Africa.

The empire's land soldiers were fighting with the French in the desperate struggle to save Paris from an encircling movement by nearly two million Germans.

British and South African fliers harassed the enemy in widely scattered places.

British planes raided northern Italy last night seeking "military objectives," and today brought down
a German Heinkel bomber on the Kentish coast of England.

Rome officially admitted an enemy attack on the Liguurian coast, between Leghorn, Italy, and the French-Italian border.

Anti-aircraft artillery at Turin,
industrial center, fired on enemy planes last night. An alarm was sounded in Milan, big northern Italy industrial city.

Raid in Ethiopia
A war communique from Pretoria, South Africa—the first from that part of the world—said "South African air force heavy bombers yesterday attacked military objectives in Abyssinia (Ethiopia)" and caused extensive damage "to buildings, personnel, roads and equipment."

A military spokesman in London said there was no confirmation that the Italians were making an assault
on Jibuti, French Somaliland port on the Gulf of Aden and railway outlet from Ethiopia.

The same commentator said the Italians did little damage when they attacked the British naval base yesterday at Malta.

Prime Minister Churchill conferred yesterday with Premier Reynaud of France and General Max-
ime Weygand, it was disclosed.
They reached "complete agreement on measures to be taken in order to meet developments in the war situation, an announcement said.

From German-occupied Trondheim in central Norway to Italian air bases in eastern Africa, the Royal Air Force reported successful raids.

At the same time, allied forces closed the Suez canal to Italian shipping which has piled the lifeline
to Italy's colonies on the Red sea.

Siam, Allies, Japs in Non-Aggression Pact

London—(AP)—R. A. Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, announced today that Thailand (Siam)
had signed separate non-aggression pacts with Britain, France and Japan.

London sources regarded the pact
as an important safeguard for Britain's Singapore naval base at the lower tip of the Malay peninsula, 300 miles south of Thailand.

Butler said the British government welcomed the agreement as "confirming long-established friendly relations between this country and people and the government of Thailand, and introducing a further element of stability in southeastern Asia."

Dispatches from Thailand said the government there asserted these "agreements may be welcomed as a further contribution to peace in this part of the world."

London—(AP)—Official British circles said today an agreement had been reached between Britain and Japan on the "outstanding points
relating to local issues at Tientsin, China."

Assert Nazis Have Seized Reims, Rouen

Say More Than 20- 000 Prisoners Tak- en at St. Valery

Tours, France—(AP)—The elements of more than 100 German divisions, attacking on a broad front
from the lower Seine to the Argonne forest carried the battle of France tonight to the region only 20 miles from Paris, which the Von Kluck and Von Bulow armies reached in September of 1914.

The Germans engulfed Senlis, historic World War town 25 miles north of Paris.

Berlin—(AP)—The German high command announced tonight that French troops surrounded at St.
Valery on the English channel, had captured and that more than 20-000 prisoners had been taken.

The captives claimed included
one French corps general, one British corps general and four French divisional generals. Material taken thus far was described as "incalculable."

Military sources said, meanwhile,
that in the air attack yesterday on Le Havre, the great French port,
a battleship or heavy cruiser was hit by a heavy bomb and damaged.
Meanwhile, an Italian army communique was read over German radios for the first time since Italy's entrance into the war—and with the same ceremony given to German communiques.

At the end of the reading, an Italian war song was played.

Dr. Robert Ley, German labor corps leader, announced in the newspaper Angriff: "Germany and Italy will fight to the final victory, standing together throughout the victory to build a new Europe and accomplish it with a better philosophy, with the philosophy of the fascist-national socialist revolution."

Rivers Crossed
Reims and Rouen have been captured, the rivers Seine and Marne
have been crossed on the two flanks
of Paris and German divisions stand on the Oise 123 miles northwest of the French capital, Germany declared today.

All these triumphs were claimed by the German high command, save the crossing of the Marne.

The declaration to that effect came from authoritative quarters expanding on the high command's announcement that the Marne had been reached "on the broadest front with strong forces."

Germans declared that such a Marne counter-offensive as saved
Paris in 1914 could not be repeated.
In 1914 Germans were not on the Seine, nor were they ever so close to Paris.

Rouen, on the meandering course of the Seine between Le Havre and Paris, was said to have been in German hands for several days.

"The Seine beyond Paris already is crossed by our troops at several points."

Swiss Blame British Bombs After Air Raid K

Morgenthau Asks Senate Passage Of Defense Bill

Says Other U. S. Expenses Can be Cut to Help Finance Program

Washington —(U)—Urging senate passage of the $4,000,000,000 tax bill which the house pushed through yesterday, Secretary Morgenthau said today that some other federal expenditures might be reduced to help finance the five-billion-dollar defense program.

Testifying before the senate finance committee, Morgenthau said "the public is willing and ready to accept additional burdens necessary to support adequate national defense."

Since this attitude reflected the general attitude of Capitol Hill as well, it seemed likely the senate would duplicate the usual spectacle of quick and almost unanimous passage of an election-year tax bill.

Only six votes were cast against the legislation in the house last evening after a single day's debate. Republicans centered their criticism unsuccessfully on the provision boosting the federal debt limit $4,000,000,000.

Two new proposals appeared likely to arise in the senate. Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said that administration forces had accepted this amendment to reduce most federal expenditures by 10 per cent. Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.) said he would force full discussion of an excess profits tax on munitions and war materials.

The six house members who held out against the 396 voting for the tax bill were Representatives Wolcott (R-Mich.), Alexander (R-Minn.), Crawford (R-Mich.), Thill (R-Wis.), Thorkelson (R-Mont.), and Marcantonio (A-L.N.Y.).

Thill sought to have the ways and means committee add a war profits tax, but was shouted down on a voice vote.

Remove Check on Grain Futures

Price Pegging Followed Declines in Wake of Nazi Offensive

Chicago —(U)—The floor placed under prices on grain futures to check drastic declines caused by the German offensive in May will be removed at the opening of trading tomorrow.

The Chicago board of trade directors decided yesterday to abolish minimum prices. Like action was taken by directors of the Minneapolis and Kansas City markets.

Prices were pegged May 19 after a week of wild selling that drove wheat down 34 cents a bushel. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace asked exchange officials to fix low limits on grain as a "temporary protective measure."

In removing the price restriction, directors stated that "public confidence in the soundness of our national marketing system has again been demonstrated."

"It is now apparent that there is need for freedom in the markets in order that the new crops the farmers are about to harvest may be marketed to their best interests."

Market observers who believed that price limits had acted as a drag on potential buying figured that removal of the restriction would restore demand to a normal basis.

Traders said the action would permit millers and other grain handlers interested in moving the new wheat crop to conduct normal hedging operations which act as insurance against losses through price changes.

Corner Lot Converted Into Used Car Center

Formerly a dump ground, the lot at the corner of S Superior and E Lawrence streets has been converted into an attractive used car lot by the Gibson company.

The lot, which is 120 by 140 feet in size, will accommodate about 150 cars. A white picket fence has been constructed around the property, with two ornamental pylons and an ornamental iron gate at the entrance.

Twenty flood lights combining 10,000 watts, illuminate the used car lot at night.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS
The finance committee of the city council will meet at 1:30 Friday afternoon in city hall to audit current bills.

The council's relief committee will meet at 2:30 Thursday afternoon to consider various relief problems.

Fears War Will Mean End of U. S. Democracy

Milwaukee —(U)—Dr. John P. Koehler, Republican candidate for United States senator, expressed fear last night that "America will end up in a dictatorship if we are drawn into the present European war."

"There is great danger that while we are fighting for world democracy and for the liberty of other nations whom we love and admire, we will be sacrificing our own democracy and liberty," Koehler, former Milwaukee public health commissioner, told a south side audience.

"No matter how much we may love other nations, let us not sacrifice our own."

Another New Deal Leader Speaks at LaFollette Rite

Attorney General Jackson Goes to Madison for Memorial Speech

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—On the heels of Wisconsin Democrats' openly expressed fears that President Roosevelt and national party headquarters will again be friendly to the reelection campaign of Senator Robert M. LaFollette this year came the announcement today that one of the president's closest associates and cabinet members, Robert F. Jackson, will be the principal speaker at the LaFollette memorial exercises here on June 23.

The attorney general of the United States, frequently referred to as the president's heir apparent for the White House, will come to Madison to speak at the Forest Hill cemetery rites in honor of the memory of Senator Robert M. LaFollette Sr., father of the Progressive party leaders, Phil and Bob LaFollette, and founder of the Wisconsin Progressive movement.

The ceremony will be the 15th at the grave of the late Progressive party leader, and it will be the second time in two years that a New Deal attorney general will be the principal speaker.

Last year Attorney General Frank Murphy, since appointed to the supreme court by the president, expressed the cordiality felt in official Washington toward Wisconsin's LaFollette by calling the LaFollette brothers "the best political stock in America." He termed Senator LaFollette one of the "most respected members" of the United States senate, and said of Phil that he was a "clean, courageous fighter."

The announcement of Jackson's scheduled appearance was made by Col. John J. Hannan of Madison, for many years secretary to the senior LaFollette, and long chairman of the state board of control.

Passengers Escape Uninjured as Plane Goes Beyond Runway

Chicago —(U)—An American Airlines plane, carrying 20 passengers and a crew of three, overran a runway while landing at the municipal airport early today and crashed through a wire fence. No one was injured.

The left section of the undercarriage of the trimmer, inbound from Ft. Worth, Texas, and St. Louis, was damaged and one wheel was sheared off. Four automobiles parked outside the fence were damaged somewhat when the plane swerved them.

T. G. Williams, flight superintendent, reporting that pilot D. C. Barrow of Chicago made a good landing, blamed the rain-glazed runway for the accident.

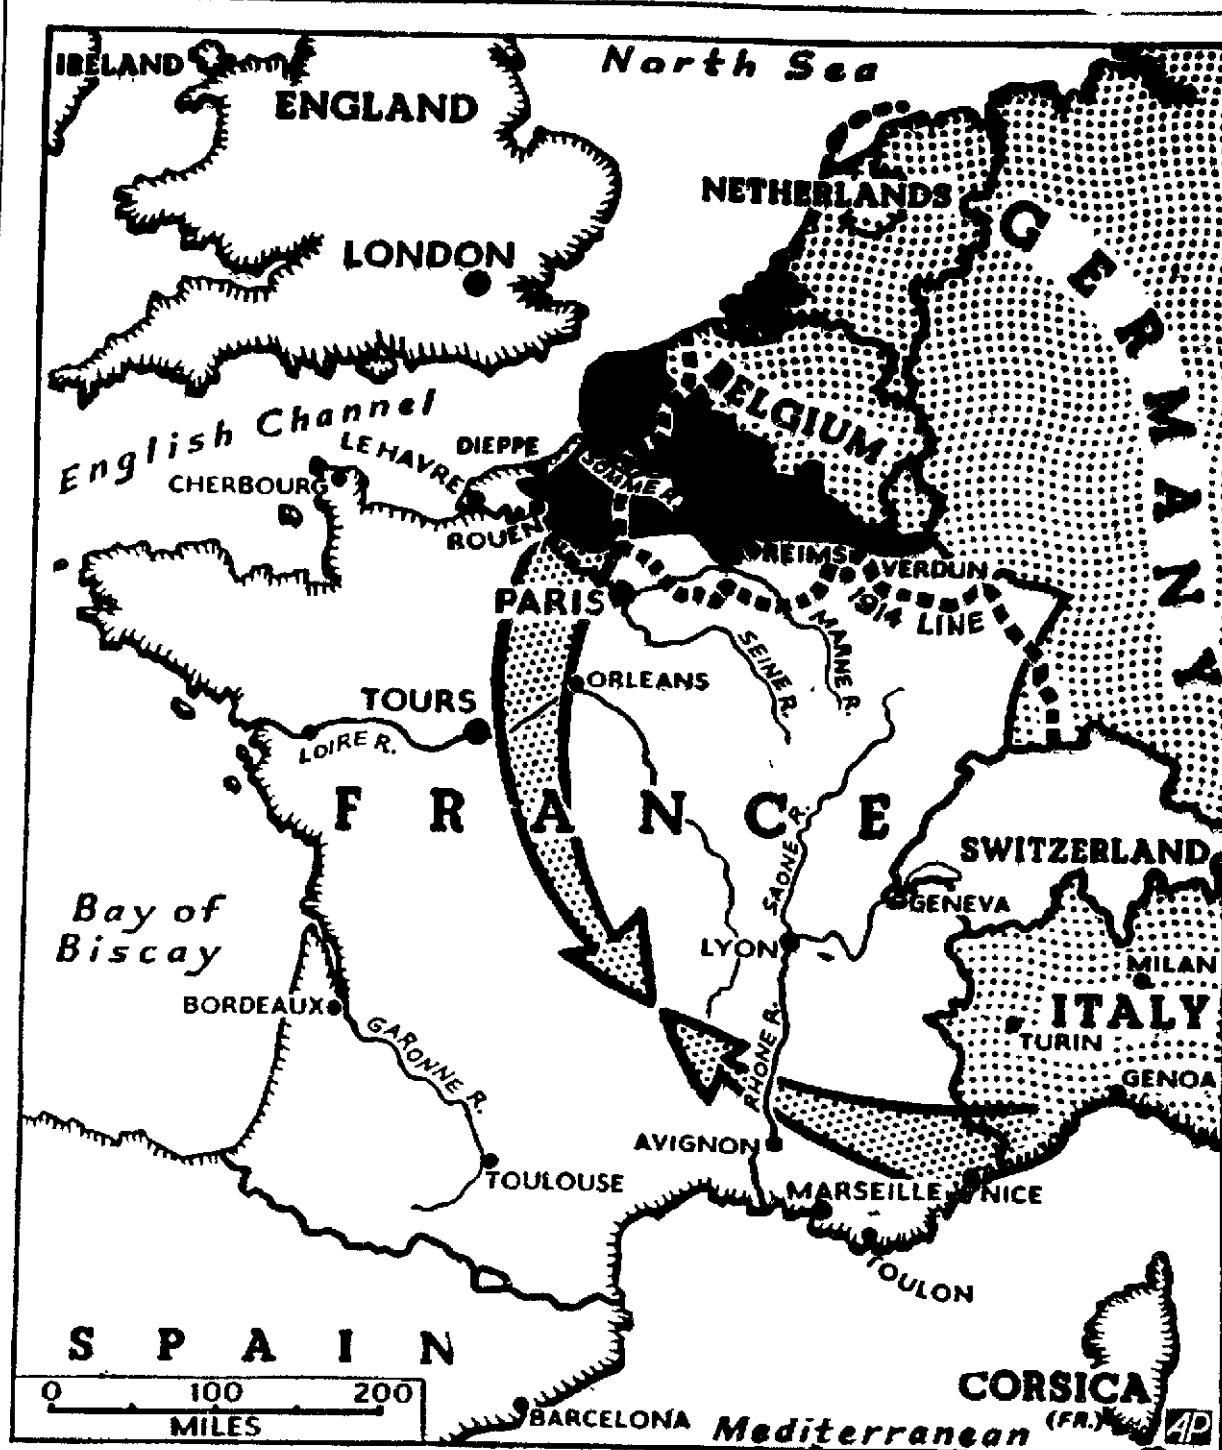

A light fog over the Chicago area this morning delayed air travel, principally incoming ships, about an hour. After the liner overran the field, incoming airplanes were advised to land at Joliet, Ill., South Bend, Ind., and Milwaukee, Wis., because of conditions here. Later they were signalled into Chicago.

Wants Constitution Amended to Prevent Gas Tax Diversion

Merrill —(U)—George J. Theiler, president of the Wisconsin Highway Committee, association, told the Wisconsin County Boards association last night that "all roads could be taken care of with gasoline money" if the state constitution specified that highway funds should be used for the construction of roads and roads alone.

Theiler asserted that $35,000,000 of highway funds had been diverted to other uses.

"If the constitution were amended," Theiler declared, "you would not have to raise a single (extra) dollar for construction, maintenance or any other form of highway work."

AXIS ARMIES SEEK TO DIVIDE FRANCE

Arrows on this Associated Press map show how German sources say Nazi and Italian armies will seek to divide France and meet in the French interior. Germans claim to have reached the Marne river and to be thrusting southwest along the English channel coast, trapping an Allied force in a small "pocket" at Dieppe. The French government moved from Paris to Tours. The black area shows approximately the French territory held by Germans. The dotted line shows by comparison the greatest advance made by the Germans in 1914, when they were stopped at the Marne.

Marne-Seine Combination Would be First Solid Front Since Nazis Pierced Lines

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York —(U)—When you see the epic stand the French poilus are making before Paris in the face of terrific odds, you understand how it is that men can cheer while comrades are dying.

This devotion and sacrifice make it possible still to record that the allied position is no more serious than it has been for days.

Indeed, the French high command having decided to withdraw to positions south of the historic Marne river, which flanks the capital to the east, the defense should be considerably easier.

Generalissimo Weygand's strategy apparently contemplates also utilizing the Seine, which forms a flank for Paris to the west, as a complementary defensive line, although his present front bulges out to the north of the capital.

This Marne-Seine combination would give him the first "solid" front the French have had since the Germans crashed the allied line up on the Somme and Aisne river early in the offensive. Strategically it is stronger, for the terrain makes it easier of defense.

Question of Stamina
Whether the Germans will be able to force their way into the beleaguered city depends on how much their stamina has been sapped by the fury of their protracted offensive.

They have the men and materials to turn the trick—but have they the reserve strength necessary? We shall have to wait and see.

If Weygand can hold not only Paris but his lines along the Marne and Seine rivers it may be the turning point of the war.

If the Germans exhaust themselves in this assault, their position will become decidedly uncomfortable, since Hitler is believed to have thrown into this drive virtually every ounce of strength he possesses.

Even the capture of Paris would not mean success for the German foe, unless in the process he crushed the French armies. Berlin seems to recognize this from a statement this morning by an authorized source who declared that the capture of Paris is not the primary object but that "the real purpose is to crush our foe's armies completely."

Obviously if Weygand had to give up Paris he could retire further south to new positions and continue the fight—provided he maintained his army intact.

The generalissimo has on his hands a far different strategic problem than had the allies in 1914 when they performed their "miracle" by throwing back the kaiser's forces on the Marne. This time the Germans have a powerful right wing which is smashing at the allied forces from the coast along the Seine river.

Not only is Weygand in danger of having this left flank turned, but he must at all costs maintain the solidity of his right wing, which is anchored to the Maginot line. Destruction of this anchor would threaten envelopment of the entire French army.

Hitler is straining every nerve to turn the trick now before his war machine begins to lose steam. A French war ministry spokesman this morning reported that the Germans even were throwing flaming tanks into battle.

Despite this pressure, the French high command this morning announced that "the situation is without important change on the entire front."

I haven't mentioned the Italian operations earlier in this article because, forsooth, there hasn't been much to say about them. After all the fanfare of the entrance into the conflict one naturally expected that the blue Mediterranean would be boiling this morning and that shells would be bouncing off the rock of Gibraltar.

Proceed Quietly
However, the fascist end of the war has thus far been a hush-hush affair. Not much light was thrown on the mystery of the Italian high command communiqué which announced that the British naval base of Malta in the Mediterranean had been bombed "with apparent results."

We shall get action in this southern war zone though, and soon enough. Indeed the British took the initiative yesterday and did extensive bombing of airdromes in Italy's African territories.

The closure of the Suez canal to Italian shipping has immediately raised difficulties for Mussolini. He has depended on the canal to reach Ethiopia and his possessions on the Red sea.

One would expect heavy fighting to develop in this area. Not only must Mussolini keep this gateway open for his own uses, but he wants to close it to the British, thereby forcing them to use the long sea route around South Africa to reach the Far East. This would, of course, be a grave blow to England and the allied cause.

Rebel Democrats To Shape Policy At Madison Meet

Session May Show Whether Party Ranks Will be Split in Campaign

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Whether the intra-party rivalry of Wisconsin New Deal Democrats which has split the organization for more than a year will be continued through the 1940 election campaign will be shown here Saturday when representatives of the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin, a "rebel" unit headed by Gustave J. Keller of Appleton, meets here to propose a platform to be submitted to Democrats at a general conference later in the summer.

There has been no indication this week that the pacific overtures made toward the Keller organization by the Democratic regulars at last week's state convention in Green Bay have had any effect, and it is expected that the contest for supremacy in the party will be continued through the primary election with opposing slates of candidates for state offices.

The issue of the primary will be important, for the faction which wins a majority of the nominations will be in a position to control the state central committee, and write the official and legal party platform for the general election in November, it has been pointed out.

Upset Issue
Meanwhile it was apparent that the regulars have upset one of the issues upon which the DPOW expected to capture popular support in the forthcoming elections by declaring for an open primary. The Keller adherents early in the summer had announced that they would favor the open primary principle and decided to boycott the recent Green Bay convention because one of the purposes of the latter meeting was the nomination of candidates by the convention.

Although the convention failed to do so, insurgent Democrats see another possible advantage in the fact that the state convention, while it adopted resolutions favoring the reelection of President Roosevelt for a third term, did not adopt a platform of principles. By including some fervent New Deal declarations in a series of platform declarations this weekend, it is felt, the DPOW may be able to make a stronger appeal to the September primary voters than will the regulars.

There has been little discussion of candidates among the DPOW leaders, although it is generally felt that either Gustave J. Keller or former Governor Francis E. McGovern of Milwaukee will be running for governor under its banner.

Ask Defense Funds For Improvement of Rail Right-of-Ways
Milwaukee —(U)—Endorsement of a proposal to divert part of the nation's defense proposals to reconstruction of railroad right-of-ways was given today by delegates representing 2,500 Milwaukee road AFL machinists.

Such improvements, it was declared, would speed up the movement of heavy freight. George H. Pedersen, chairman of the machinists' convention which is in session here, said that the elimination of sharp curves and the use of steel wheels on freight cars would enable railroads to maintain freight schedules of 100 miles an hour.

Pedersen told the meeting that air bombing could not tie up the nation's transportation system of freight cars, because modern track laying equipment could put down a mile of roadbed around an obstruction in less than 12 hours.

Watertown Man Heads Moravian Church Group
Bethlehem, Pa.—(U)—Delegates to the annual conference of the eastern district synod of the Moravian church yesterday elected Bishop Karl A. Mueller of Watertown, Wis., president of the synod.

The delegates were told that the European war had cut off communications with Moravians in Germany and England, "causing financial difficulties in mission fields."

Report Increase in Appendicitis Deaths
New York —(U)—Deaths from appendicitis are increasing in the United States, Dr. Erwin R. Schmidt of Madison, Wis., reported to the American Medical association yesterday.

The reason, he said, probably was difficulty in knowing promptly whether a person had appendicitis, since there are 20 different conditions that resemble this disease at the start.

War Situation Today

German armies storming toward Paris today crossed the Marne river and fought French poilus 121 miles from the French capital, Berlin reported, while other Nazi columns forced the surrender of more than 20,000 French troops isolated at St. Valery on the English channel.

In the onslaught to Paris, Hitler's armies rode over bitterly-contested world war battlefields and reached the closest point to the French capital since Bismarck's German armies marched into Paris in 1870.

It outdistanced by 15 miles the threat against Paris poised by Von Kluck's German "death's head" Uhlans in 1914.

"Nowhere have the French defenses been pierced," said a Paris spokesman.

The Germans reported advances from 50 to 70 miles toward Paris "on many fronts" in the past six days of the titanic struggle.

Rome reported the first enemy assault on Italian soil since Premier Mussolini declared war Monday—an unspecified attack on the Liguatian coast, where the great Italian shipping port of Genoa is situated. Earlier, London had reported a British bombing attack on northern Italy.

Prime Minister Churchill conferred with Premier Reynaud and Generalissimo Weygand somewhere in France yesterday and reached "complete agreement" on steps vital to meet the German onslaught.

The Nazi high command reported that Rouen, French shipping base on the Seine river, halfway between the capital and Le Havre, has been in German hands for several days.

Italy was reported to have handed an ultimatum to Egypt. Other successes announced by the German high command included:

1. Capture of Compiègne, scene of the signing of the armistice in 1918, on the Oise river north of Paris.

2. Crossing of the Seine at several points.

3. Allied troops cut off and surrounded near St. Valery on the English channel coast.

4. Le Havre bombed; seven allied transports sunk, 10 other vessels damaged; 59 allied planes and three barrier balloons destroyed.

A ray of hope for the allies was the announcement in New York that $37,000,000 worth of old United States ordnance, ammunition and equipment would be available for sale by a deal between the U. S. war department and the U. S. Steel Export Co.

President Roosevelt asked the congress to appropriate $50,000,000 for relief of European civilians.

The president placed the Mediterranean sea in the combat zone, closing it to American ships.

Conservation Men Recommend Duck Zoning for State

Club Contents Season Usually Closed Before Birds Leave North

The Outagamie Conservation club will recommend re-establishment of duck zoning in Wisconsin from the northern to the intermediate zone, it was decided at a meeting last night at the courthouse.

Sportsmen favored the change because many of the northern ducks do not migrate from the north until the duck season in this area is closed. The recommendation will be submitted at the conservation congress in Madison July 8 and 9.

Henry Van Ryzin was named chairman of a committee to plan a club dance at Greenville later this month. On the committee are Irving Jennerjohn, John Branchford, Leo Schreiter, Charles Grapchen, Harry Schultz, Peter Wenzers, Herman Price and Gordon Ratzman.

A committee also was appointed to make arrangements for the club's annual picnic. Phelan Van Ryzin was chosen chairman and will be assisted by Arthur Borsche, Sylvester Vandenberg, William Olson, Arnold Lopus, John Branchford, Earl Tews, James Walter, Fred Rehfeldt, Robert Krause and Robert Rahn.

Phelan Van Ryzin, chairman of the fish planting committee, reported that the club planted 300,000 pike in Lake Winnebago May 27.

Inspector Issues Building Permits Totalling $28,000

Filling Station and Five Houses Among Construction Authorized

Fourteen building permits for construction estimated at $28,125 including a filling station and five new homes, were granted by John A. Pierre, city building inspector, last week.

The filling station permit went to the Standard Oil company, which is raising the station at 508 N. Oneida street to build a new one valued at about $5,000. It will be 37 by 26 feet in size.

Home permits were issued to Herman C. Schultz who will build a home valued at $4,950 at 711 W. Harris street, Wendell Hartford, a home estimated at $3,000 at 214 S. Victoria street, Robert Smith a $6,000 home at 111 E. Nicholas street, Lester Wiese a house estimated at $5,000 at 926 E. Atlantic street, and Leonard M. Williams a new house valued at $2,800 at 807 E. Harriman street.

Oscar Boldt, 609 S. Walnut street, will build a private garage at a cost of about $500, the Lieber Lumber company got a permit to build a private garage at 1823 N. Superior street valued at $160, and Vincent Kolosso, 727 W. Fourth street, will erect a private garage at a cost of $125.

A permit was issued to Lawrence McGillan, 1015 W. Harris street, to build a new porch at a cost of $75 another went to Peter Rademacher, 614 N. Superior street to build an addition to his home at a cost of $25, and Edvard Bohatschek, 527 W. Sixth street, received a permit to remodel his house at an approximate cost of $200.

Census Bureau Works On City Enumeration

Harold Kuypers 1940 census supervisor in the Green Bay district, said today his men are working on the Appleton population count and a preliminary report is expected within a few days. Appleton's population in 1930 was 25,267 and preliminary estimates are expected to show an increase of about 3,000 persons.

Street to be Closed To Parkers at Picnic

Police Chief George T. Prim today asked motorists attending the South Side Athletic association picnic at Telulah park over the weekend to refrain from parking on Newberry street between the park and John street. Because the street is narrow and the expected heavy traffic Saturday and Sunday, this section of the street will be closed to parkers.

Tree Trimmers Claim To Represent Board

Harold Jerke, city forester, warned property owners against tree trimmers seeking work in Appleton and claiming to be representatives of the park board. Jerke said the park board has no men seeking tree trimming jobs but will send men on the request of taxpayers. The park board men will carry city tree trimming permits he said.

Bette McCarty Moves To Second Place in Vote for City Queen

Kaukauna — Bette McCarty has moved into second place in the contest to determine Kaukauna's sesquicentennial popularity queen, and now has 113,750 votes to Eunice Kapala's 80,250, good for third place. Armella Boucher continues to top the poll by large margin.

Other vote totals are Mary Schatzka, 71,000; Lynn Angove, 52,750; Lorraine Martin, 49,750; Dorothy Wenzel, 45,000; Mary Alice Flanagan, 42,550; Mary Lou Van-evenhoven, 30,250; Dorothy Tim-mers, 28,750; Peggy Brandt, 19,500; Kathryn Ann Driessen, 16,250; Grace Nagan and Mary Bisel, 10,000.

Council Votes to Trade Land With Lumber Company

City Acquires Lots at West Ends of Second, Third Streets

Kaukauna — The common council voted at last night's special meeting to trade land adjacent to Kaukauna Lumber and Manufacturing company property for lots and buildings owned by the lumber firm at the west ends of Second and Third streets.

One of the lots the city will receive fronts on Second street, and two on Third street. Two buildings are on the lots. In addition the city is to receive a 120 by 70 parcel of land near the pumping station, for possible extension of the city water system.

The council hopes to house a new industry in one of the buildings, which have been used to store lumber. Mayor William J. Gantner told the aldermen that Harry Scholl, for 15 years in the paper processing business at Green Bay, was looking for a new location. Scholl has a capital of $15,000 and holds a patent on other concern possessors, Gantner said.

Discuss Costs Aldermen discussed whether it would be cheaper to repair the largest shed or erect a new building. Gantner said it would cost about $4,500 to put in a cement floor, while Alderman George Luebke said it would be cheaper to build a new 1-story building. "You've got nothing but the lot," he stated.

It developed the lumber company already had buildings on the land it would receive from the city. Ethan Brewster, utility commissioner, said that inasmuch as the city got no use from this land it might as well trade it for the sites which might be used for industrial locations, even if nothing were done about buildings at present.

Luebke suggested councilmen inspect both properties before the final contract was signed. Alderman Oscar Alger moved the trade be approved, and the council approved unanimously. It was pointed out that any loss in taxes from the properties passing into city hands would be offset by rent.

Kaukauna Library Circulates 3,500 Books During May

Kaukauna — Public library circulation during May was 3,520, with 1,209 juvenile and 2,311 adult, according to Miss Bernice M. Happer, librarian. The total showed a decrease of 714 under April and an increase of 375 over May of 1939. Thirty-six books were added to the collection, which now totals 8,580. Forty-three new readers registered and 59 withdrew, leaving 2,651 on the rolls.

The children's reading club will not function this summer, Miss Happer announced. The Book Review club has adjourned until fall.

launched here, with A. M. Schmalz and Carl J. Hansen, committee members, accepting contributions. The cabin will be called "Kaukauna Cabin," and be available to this city's scouts all year.

Willkie Jumps to Second Place in Popularity As Republican Convention Nears, Poll Shows

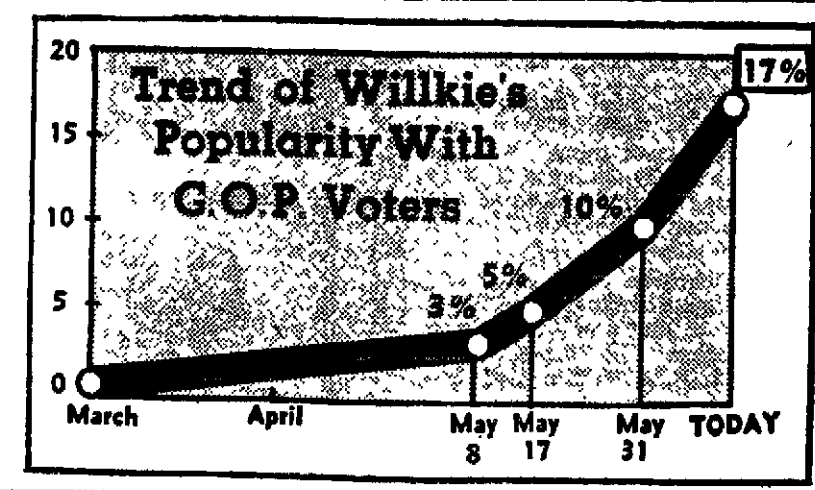

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—With the Republican nominating convention less than two weeks away, another sharp rise has come in the popularity of Wendell L. Willkie and a corresponding drop in the popularity of Thomas E. Dewey in polls taken among the rank and file of Republican voters. The latest survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion shows that Willkie has, in a little over two months, jumped from nowhere to second place in popularity as a presidential candidate—a phenomenal rise.

The leading choices of the Republican rank and file—though they may not prove to be the choices of the Republican delegates in Philadelphia—are today Thomas E. Dewey, Wendell Willkie, Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, in that order. Dewey's lead is not as great today as it was in a survey a month ago, but he continues to run far ahead of his rivals, with approximately three times as many mentions as Willkie. There is still, however, a substantial group of Republicans—30 per cent—who express no choice on candidates at the present time.

The shifts and changes in sentiment on G. O. P. candidates is vividly shown in the following comparisons. Each survey was taken on the identical question: "Whom would you like to see elected president?" No list of candidates being presented to the voters, their choices were entirely spontaneous. Those expressing a choice voted as follows:

Today
Dewey	52%
Willkie	17%
Taft	13%
Vandenberg	12%
Hoover	2%
London	1%
Gannett	1%
Others	2%
Two Weeks Ago (May 31)
Dewey	56%
Taft	16%
Vandenberg	12%
Willkie	10%
Hoover	2%
Gannett	1%
James	1%
Others	2%

Month Ago (May 8)

Dewey	67%
Vandenberg	14%
Taft	12%
Willkie	3%
Hoover	2%
Others	2%

Republicans were identified in the survey as those persons who want to see the Republican party win the presidential election this year.

While the popularity of Vandenberg and Taft has remained relatively steady, percentage-wise, the figures show a drop for Dewey from 67 per cent, to 56 per cent, to 52 per cent. During the same period Willkie rose sharply in popularity, going from 3 per cent to 17 per cent. In polls previous to May 8, Willkie's name did not even appear among the leaders, the total cast for him being less than one per cent.

The Dewey forces can take comfort, however, from the fact that the ratio by which their candidate leads is still substantial, and that the Willkie forces have a long way to go to catch up with them.

The changes in sentiment in the last month form a dramatic challenge to the validity of an old political theory. Politicians have argued for many decades that voters tend to climb onto the "bandwagon" of a candidate shown to be in the lead. They desire, according to this argument, to move with the crowd, to be on the popular side. Yet today's results show that the popularity of the leading candidate, Dewey, not only has not remained stable, but actually dropped sharply in the last month. If the bandwagon theory were valid, he should have gained support as voters flocked to the bandwagon of the popular leader.

In a second question in today's survey Republican voters were asked to give their preference if it came to a choice among the top four leaders—Dewey, Willkie, Taft and Vandenberg—for the presidential nomination.

The line-up among those with opinions follows:

Dewey	50%
Willkie	18%
Taft	16%
Vandenberg	16%
Approximately one-fifth (24 per cent) expressed no opinion.

Clapper Sees War Situation As Challenge to Republicans

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Chicago—What chance has the Republican party in this situation? Very little, if it is thinking only of winning the election. People have no patience for ordinary politics now. They are not interested.

But if the Republican party is thinking, as some of its leaders are thinking, of rising to the challenge of this fateful hour, when the clock is telling off perhaps the end of the world that we have known, then the Republican party has an opportunity the like of which it has never known.

What is the challenge? The challenge is to throw aside all considerations of political expediency. It is to forget the usual prattle of politics. It is to refrain from the cheap attempt to capitalize upon any action—such as the hasty dispatch of navy planes to the Allies or the possible use of troops in Latin America—that the president might have to take to protect the national interest. It is to strive only for a sense of responsibility to the needs of the nation.

The challenge is to realize and to be ready to do something about it the hard fact that in Europe democracy has failed, failed miserably, shown itself to be incompetent, fumbling, too slow, too ignorant, too paralyzed by its own internal politics, helpless to use science and invention effectively for its own self-preservation—a tragic victim of its own internal weaknesses. In Europe democracy has been tried and found wanting. We may not see it restored there for a long time.

The challenge to us is to save democracy from a like fate here, to make it produce results. The task is to rescue American democracy from the fatal symptoms of Chamberlainism that we already see here.

U. S. Has Seen Danger But Isn't Prepared Yet

We have had our warning. We have had it in Europe. We have had it here. Hitler took power at the same time as Roosevelt. Our government has recognized the menace, has seen more clearly than did Britain and France what Hitler meant. But we are not prepared to meet the menace of a Hitler world. Knowing better, we have yet acted like Chamberlains.

The Republican party can pitch us deeper into Chamberlainism. It can sabotage, scream about executive powers, throw monkey-wrenches in the name of individual liberty, divide the country by appealing to unworthy emotions, stir up opposition and mistrust of measures that are necessary for quick defense preparations, complain of the very things that we do if they were in power—and can, by such a course sink us further into helpless paralysis such as Britain and France suffered in face of danger.

Or our Republican party can set itself to drive toward more effective defense and toward a courageous support of policies that best protect our national interest. In so doing it can make a strong case against the administration for floundering, lack of planning, hopelessly inadequate personnel and meager results.

Republicans can nominate somebody who looks good in ephemeral straw votes, or some plodding politician whose profession is running for office. Or they can take a bold and audacious course, look at the job to be done, and select, regardless of tradition, the man best qualified to do it. Republicans can face the fact that industrial production, the rapid, highly integrated use of our factories, is the first task. They can leap over the "keep off the grass" signs and nominate Wendell Willkie.

Politicians Shouldn't Mistake The Trend

That would have a tonic effect on the whole country. Mr. Willkie would make a campaign, win or lose, of which the party could be proud. He could goad the administration out of its Chamberlainism, and drive it to work. He could shake the country out of the self-indulgent policies that have enfeebled this democracy as they did England and France.

The Willkie movement is an amateur affair. It has no political organization. Professional politicians are contemptuous of the Willkie boom. But they should not mistake its meaning.

The Willkie boom is a nationwide shout of contempt for the old-style politicians. It springs from an instinctive sense that the shopworn politician is inadequate to this crisis. It is a symptom of the craving for a leader who will throw new strength, new audacity, new courage into the battle for democracy which has been lost in Europe and isn't going too well here.

RUMBLING ALONG THE ROAD TO WAR

The President's Virginia address was a heartening message to the sorely pressed English and French. But it was a hazardous handling of American interests.

Let us not delude ourselves further. We are already launched upon the broad and beautiful road to war. There is no straighter road in the world although the eye is prevented from seeing far ahead upon it because of screens and fogs and the many attractive features near at hand.

We traveled this road once before but memory is fleeting and the sweetness of the early part of the journey cannot be denied.

American firms have a perfect right to manufacture articles for shipment abroad to England and France so long as they do not contravene American laws. But America lost its neutral standing when its president became a vigorous crusader for one side of the war and against the other.

And our nation became an actual participant in the war when it transferred articles of warfare such as the 50 navy planes, a transfer directed by the President.

The recklessness of the White House attitude should be evident in that mere item. The 50 planes mean very little in a war that crumbles more than that many in a day. But the act of transfer is significant. It is practically a signing of the bond.

Meanwhile the people are cocained into a sleepy trustfulness by the meaningless expression "short of war." It is an expression empty of everything but sound and dope. We are going to war "short of war." In other words we will get the advantages, the cheers, even the glory of war but the others will spill their blood where we will only spill our sweat for high wages. And even this idea isn't new. It is picked out of World War No. 1 with hardly a trace of change.

"Short of war" pleases the Allies. They tell us that is wholly satisfactory. They told Woodrow Wilson we wouldn't need to send any troops to Europe in 1917, or just enough as a symbol so the people could see for their encouragement. But we had no sooner gotten into that war than they cried that their backs were to the wall and that we must hasten a gigantic army or all would be lost including ourselves.

There is a lot of propaganda going on in this country of the same order that Hitler fed his people when he wanted them to become enraged at the Poles. But we cannot get into a war without that sort of stuff. For war is caused by a number of emotions, among which fear of the consequences of abstinence from war is very important.

Let there be no misunderstanding. We are on the road to war. And it is a beautiful road on which we are stimulated to high feeling by an elixir composed of all the emotions we cannot control. The road leads to a blood-soaked arena and we will arrive there much sooner than anyone anticipates. Nor is the arena any more horrible than the road beyond which we must traverse if we ever make our way through the battlefield itself. The road beyond is littered with broken hopes as well as broken bodies. It, too, is a long road. But it isn't straight. It leads by twists and bends around again to the bright and beautiful avenue of war.

And thus the fatal circuit is completed from one generation to another.

MUSSOLINI AND ROOSEVELT ON THE PLATFORM

Making due allowance for Latin methods of expression there was really quite a parallel between Mussolini's address at the declaration of war and our President's addresses when he was stirring up the American political pot.

For instance, Mussolini announced that he represents the movement of youth and vigor against the cobwebs of the past. He might have said against the "horse and buggy age." He also denounced the democracies as "plutocratic" and "reactionary." Where have we heard those words before? Moreover he painted a picture of Italy being "starved" by certain nations who had gathered together the business and the gold of the world. Is this any different in thought than the story of our "one-third ill fed" etc?

But probably in our noble President's eyes Mr. Duce reached his crowning note of infamy when he proclaimed himself a leader of liberalism. That must sound to Mr. Roosevelt even worse than a declaration of war against France.

The upshot of this comparison is that men should not live by words alone and particularly the words of sweetness and light with which they describe themselves and the words of darkness and despair with which they hold up their adversaries to the contempt of an unthinking world.

MITCHELL'S PROPHECY AND YARNELL'S WARNING

General Mitchell of Wisconsin was cashiered from the army by means of a court martial because he had the foresight to accurately gauge the part airplanes would play in the next war and the courageous patriotism to insistently keep the matter before his superior officers. Recently the Chicago Tribune dug up an article printed in Liberty Magazine 12 years ago in which General Mitchell foreshadowed recent events with almost ghostly exactness. It may be remarked, however, that the Germans profited by the truth in Mitchell's articles.

All of which leads us to the recent address of Admiral Yarnell of the United States Navy before a graduating class of the Naval War College. The admiral hotly urged that America keep out of this war at least until she is assured that her men and money "will be spent to a far better end than in 1918."

Continuing the admiral said: "The people of this country are still painfully aware of the result of the last World War, when we sent two million men abroad and spent 30 or more billions of dollars and at the end witnessed a relapse of the high ideals and a resumption of the old selfish, nationalistic policies that planted the seeds of future war."

"The Atlantic ocean still remains a large body of water and the probability of plane attack from overseas on this country will remain remote for some time to come."

"Do not enter the war to assist any nation until that nation unreservedly pledges itself to support a treaty of peace that will be fair to all and will be of value in discouraging in the future the use of war as an instrument of national policy."

In a few direct sentences the admiral correctly told the failure of our foreign efforts to reform the greedy, grabbing nations of Europe, our relative safety where we are, the fact that the Allies are materially to blame for this war in the treaty they exacted 20 years ago, and that if we went to war and won for them again we would have the same old despairing problem of walking out of their treaty conferences as we did in 1919.

The admiral's suggestion that pledges be exacted to support a fair treaty is much easier to ask than to accomplish. In 1918 Mr. Wilson outlined his celebrated 14 points to which the Allies substantially agreed but they didn't live up to their agreement.

The admiral should be commended for setting forth actual conditions past and present even if he risks court martial for daring to do so.

TELEVISION'S STILL BIRTH

The Federal Communications Commission has clamped down with stern force upon the public introduction of television. Its issued reason is that there are still many places for improvement and the article should not be on the market until the improvements are well-nigh complete.

Here is a blind and heavy piece of despotism, destructive of invention and advancement.

It is the first occasion in the industrial development of America that the government has decided when inventors may or may not submit the results of their ingenuity to the public.

If we only had this commission in existence when radio first reached the market it would be just about as dead today as it was then. If we had another commission ruling in other industrial fields the recent miracle of manufactured rubber conceived by Standard Oil inventors and the new silk made by DuPont scientists would have been choked to death in some damp and dark basement corner.

As yet the government has not been able to extend its bureaucracy everywhere so there are a few places where industry still breathes, develops and produces.

America's greatest progress has arisen through mass experience. Television inventors are not necessarily limited to those now seeking to improve methods and results. The inventive genius prepared by heaven to set the world afire may be placed where he will never come in touch with television unless it is put on the market.

Bureaucracy is by its nature slow, foolish and shallow. A large share of the men thus given authority have been cast off by a business and industry because not mentally swift enough to keep up with the parade. So by becoming bureaucrats, they literally "feed from off the plate they lately washed" and rule the industry that found no place for them because they were not abreast of the others in it.

A Verse for Today

THE MELODY OF YOU

Above the chords the melody rings clear,
I hear it after
You have departed, singing to me here
From wall and rafter.

Over the discords of my busy day,
I hear (to prove you)
Have power to scatter all my cares away!
The music of you!

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—Inside reason why Edouard Daladier, once called the strong-man of France, was ousted from the cabinet was the fact that he wanted a separate peace with Germany.

He felt that France was hopelessly outnumbered and could count on no real support from the British. To date there are only 25,250 British soldiers fighting on French soil plus 350 planes, and Daladier was convinced that not much more would be forthcoming. Under the circumstances he was opposed to France holding the bag and proposed a separate peace which he thought could be favorable to France.

The reply of the French cabinet was Daladier's resignation as Minister of Foreign Affairs. Note—After the French defeat in the Prussian War of 1870 and the fall of Napoleon III, the Empress Eugenie gave some cogent advice to M. Dardier, Minister of Foreign Affairs in the new Republican government. She said she did not care what form of government France followed, provided it did one thing—namely never wage war with Germany again without allies.

Today, many Frenchmen feel poignantly that this advice has been spurned; that they face a Germany twice as strong in manpower, far better equipped, and are surrounded by Germany, Italy and Spain, without any material help from their one ally.

DEFENDER KNUDSEN
When William Knudsen, national defense coordinator, concentrates on a problem, he concentrates.

The other day Bob Horton, U. S. Maritime Commission press chief who has been lent to the defense committee, entered Knudsen's office to confer with him about a matter. The powerfully built General Motors head was deeply engrossed in a mass of papers. After a few minutes of waiting, Horton discreetly cleared his throat.

Knudsen responded, but not as the startled press man expected. Without looking up, Knudsen demanded, "Can you make tanks?"

"Er... No... I'm..." stammered Horton. "Then see me some other time," rumbled Knudsen, still not looking up. "I'm looking for tank makers. As you go out, please tell the next man to come in."

WAR NOTES

Real fact about the so-called Weygand line is that it is not a fortified line, but a hastily thrown up series of gun emplacements. There are no pill-boxes, for the simple reason that you cannot construct concrete pill-boxes in so short a time. . . . French machine-gun nests are made of sand-bags and branches, carefully camouflaged. The artillery emplacements are similar. . . . Reason Hitler has not used gas during his blitzkrieg is that his troops have been moving too fast; they would catch up with their own gas. Also gas would probably permeate Nazi tanks. . . . Gas is used in the slower type of stationary warfare, and if it settles down to this on the western front you can expect to see gas used almost any day.

THE PRESIDENT WORKS

How does the president stand the tremendous strain of the war crisis? Here is the answer, as given by Miss Marguerite ("Missy") LeHand, his private secretary.

"The president is working much longer hours. He used to swim in the White House pool every day, but now it's cut down to three times a week."

"He would like to go to Hyde Park, but he has to stay close to base. He does get away for an occasional cruise down the Potomac, but in one case, when he had planned to stay away until bedtime Sunday evening, he told Captain Callahan to turn back early, so he could get some work done."

"The cruises refresh him remarkably. After a hard week, if he can get a single night's rest on a hard week, if a good long rest—he comes back looking like a new man. As long as he has this capacity for a quick come-back, there seems to be no limit to his endurance."

"He works later in the evenings now, with bedtime more often at midnight, where he used to be 11 o'clock. But he has been greatly relieved in one way. People don't demand his personal attention so much. There aren't so many letters requiring his personal signature, and he is spared a lot of minor matters."

Miss LeHand's office opens directly off the president's. As she spoke, a chorus of laughter came from it. The president was conferring with the defense committee and the wise-crack was probably his own.

"He still keeps his good humor," remarked Miss LeHand, "but he is quieter. When he is troubled, he is quiet for long periods of time."

CHICAGO LINE-UPS
Speaker Bill Bankhead is in a direful predicament.

It's a White House secret, but the courtly-mannered and able Alabama is the president's personal choice for keynoter at the Democratic convention—a high honor much sought after by a number of big shot party leaders. At least half a dozen are pulling every possible wire to land it.

But Bankhead, who can have it on a silver platter, doesn't know whether he wants it or not.

Reason for his dilemma is a virulent case of vice-presidentitis. Bankhead feels that is a strong second-place possibility and that the keynote speech customarily is made by a dignitary who is not a candidate. For him to accept the role, therefore, would be an admission that he was out of the running. And Bankhead is anything but that. He is very much in the vice-presidential race.

Roosevelt picked Bankhead because he liked the speaker's witty speeches at the last two Jackson Day banquets. But while flattered, the Speaker is still undecided whether to accept the president's offer.

Note—Roosevelt's choice for permanent chairman of the convention is Senate Floor Leader Alben Barkley, 1936 keynoter and also a vice presidential hopeful, though not a very hot-and-bothered one. The president's choice for his floor manager is brainy little Senator Jimmy Byrnes, assisted by Senators Minton of Ind., Pepper of Fla., Lister Hill of Ala., and Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago.

CAPITAL CHAFF
Summer heat has come to Washington, but not the new fiscal year. Result: no electric fans for the state department. The building has just had its wiring changed from direct to alternating current, but the money for new fans is not available until the new fiscal year, beginning July 1. . . . White House press conferences are drawing between 150 and 200 newsmen these days. . . . A friend tried to draw out Miss Marguerite LeHand, private secretary to the president, on the third term. Pointing to the White House rose gardens outside her window, he asked: "Do you expect to see the roses bloom again next year?" Miss LeHand replied: "Somewhere, yes."

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT
Washington—The tourist trade of the nation's capital probably compares very favorably with that of California, Colorado, Maine and Minnesota in summer, and Florida in winter—but the most amazing phase of it to any newcomer must certainly be the thousands upon thousands of private school, high school and college youngsters who flock here every spring.

Like most of these money-spending movements, the "see-Washington-first" and "know-your-capital" drives were started by commercial enterprise, but the benefits seem to take away a lot of the curse of commercialism.

At any rate, it's a major tourist trend. I can't give you any figures on the number of children pouring in here, but I tried. The something-or-other committee of the Washington board of trade was proud to inform me that the city had a 50 per cent increase in tourist trade last year, but they don't break down the figures.

Nor do the railroads, bus companies and hotels. But all will tell you they take care of a lot of children. I sat in the office of one of the major bus companies handling local and long-distance trips and heard tours booked for high school groups from Miami, Fla., and Newark, N. J. They have handled groups from Atlanta, Kansas City, Tulsa, Okla., St. Louis, St. Paul, and several towns in Connecticut, Massachusetts and upstate New York, to name a few.

They're Well Posted
These educational tours, according to railroad and bus officials generally are booked by school principals who merely notify the carrier that they have 100, or 200, or whatever the number might be, of youngsters who want to make the trip to Washington for three or five days, or a week.

The itinerary is discussed, the rates made and the tour is on. Book a room in one of the Washington hotels some night on a floor with a bunch of these wild Indians. If you enjoy a night without sleep. But if you are lucky enough to get in on their conversation, it may be a revelation, the way they gulp down their history and culture.

"Whaddya know about that mast of the Battleship Maine being right out there in Arlington cemetery?" . . . "Didja hear the guy say those guards walk day and night, summer and winter, heat and storm, at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier?" . . . "How could there have been anything big happening in the senate—why there wasn't more than a handful of those guys there?" . . . "Say, wasn't that Whispering Gallery in the Hall of Statuary swell? And that used to be the House of Representatives. How you suppose a guy ever got a speech made when he had to listen to himself?" . . . "Boy, did I get a kick out of seeing the 'Spirit of St. Louis' in the National Museum!"

And so it goes. For a sum estimated at 40 per cent under actual tourist costs, these high school and college groups are getting a high pressure tour of Washington and its nearby historical points, generally including Mt. Vernon, Annapolis, and sometimes Monticello, Yorktown, Old Point Comfort, Fort Myer and Georgetown.

I'm not bowling these tours. I don't really know whether they are worthy the money. I'm only reporting that they are here and that there isn't a day when you have business in the Capitol, the Bureau of Engraving, the Smithsonian, or the National Zoo that you don't trip over a bevy of them from faraway cities in the north, the middle west, the deep south.

SEEING GERMANY'S SPOILS

Editor Post-Crescent—Elsewhere I have read with interest that the Secretary of State for Tourists in Germany, Hermann Esser, is diligently planning his program for the development of tourist trade in Germany after the war, with special reference to Americans.

The man's faith and optimism are amazing. Predicating his plans upon the assumption that we shall be morbidly curious to "view the remains" of Germany and her bludgeoned "foster-children," he is preparing to collect good American dollars.

Maybe he'll do it. Maybe there are those who can gaze with detachment upon the new "ruins," physical and spiritual, created by the Nazi. Let us hope however that the average American, with his keen sense of "smell" will find the stench from a Hitler-spawned mode of existence so nauseating as to spoil the "view."

IN A LITTLE SIDEWALK CAFE

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WENGAARD
Madison—Considered realistically, the Democratic party of Wisconsin is in no better position today than it was before the state convention at Green Bay last Saturday.

The convention itself was drab, and poorly attended, principally because of the bitter fight which still rages within it. The official leaders showed no real anxiety to patch up the quarrel beyond formal urging for harmony.

And the delegates, the leaders of the party in the counties, didn't act like men and women on the road to an election victory.

THE PRESIDENT
The Democratic party in Wisconsin is weak, and may well be prostrate before many more months pass. The reason today is the same reason for its weakness during half a dozen recent years. There is no certainty whatever that the national leader of the party, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, is very interested in the success or failure of Wisconsin Democrats. There is a widespread suspicion among the Democrats themselves that in 1940 as in earlier elections, the President will tacitly approve the stronger Progressive party, whose leaders are more closely akin to the New Deal than some of the conservatives among Wisconsin Democrats.

Most of the Democratic leaders of Wisconsin, although many of them are privately hostile to the New Deal in many of its phases and opposed to a third term, are prepared to swallow their objections for the sake of a chance to ride to victory under the New Deal banner this year. That was the reason why the resolution demanding a third term was adopted automatically at the convention, although some of the Garner admirers in the convention hall had to swallow hard several times to bring themselves to vote "aye."

DISPIRITED
Yet the conviction that the Progressives are more likely to get the help of the President, if only through his failure to assist the campaign of the state Democrats, has the effect of corroding the organizational strength of the party.

Coupled with that prospect is the knowledge of most of the Democrats that their own state leaders have been participants in the Progressive-Roosevelt deals in the past. The Democratic convention delegates adopted a resolution commending the service of Charles E. Broughton, Democratic national committeeman, and asking that he be continued in office. Yet most of them know that the Progressives of Wisconsin have been bolstered immeasurably through New Deal patronage gifts arranged with the consent and knowledge of Broughton, and that the Democratic state organization has sagged and decayed as a result.

SENATE CANDIDATES
It was significant that the convention nominations committee did not propose to nominate men for senator against LaFollette, and that the question was forced only when W. D. Carroll, foremost conservative in the party and a candidate for senator himself, insisted that the delegates consider it and vote on it.

It is significant too that the only man in the whole list of suggested senate candidates who can be regarded as an avowed candidate is W. D. Carroll, and that Carroll's candidacy is frowned upon by those New Deal leaders who know his attitude toward Roosevelt, if only as the result of his open anti-third

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

ABOUT THE CRI

For many years I have been striving to make the public spray conscious, believing that recognition of this usual mode of infection is essential for prevention of most of the illness doctors attend.

A considerable portion of the population and even some public health authorities have accepted or corroborated my observations and teachings so far as cough-spray and sneeze-spray are concerned, and intelligent people today have a health fear of this hazard. But I have never gotten beyond first base with the profession or the public in the endeavor to convince them that ordinary polite conversational spray to which one is more or less exposed in everyday life constitutes a greater hazard because in the present state of ethics one never can tell whether the person with whom one chats is a conscientious citizen or a scoundrel—that is, whether he or she frankly acknowledges he has the cri or tries to conceal it or pass it off as something harmless.

The censor silenced me when I sought to teach this principle of personal prophylaxis to radio listeners, in a series of health talks I gave over a national radio chain; the idea, he opined, was unpleasant for women and children.

The reality of cough-spray and sneeze-spray forced itself upon popular and professional consciousness years ago because any fool could feel and see the droplets in such spray.

Now, at last, the reality of conversational spray may be recognized, at least by the intelligent portion of the population. The other day the lay press carried news and pictures showing sneeze spray as pictured by high-speed, stop-motion photographs, spray which, according to the professor who made the study, has a muzzle velocity of 150 feet a second and contains thousands of droplets 1-250th of an inch in diameter, each droplet laden with millions of germs. The term campaign this spring as a part of the Garner machine.

The fate of the Democratic party of Wisconsin in the 1940 campaign will be decided in the White House. The Democrats of Wisconsin today are in no way confident that the decision will favor them.

pictures of the sneeze indicate that the range of the spray must be many feet. I regret that no picture of conversational spray was published. But I can state, with scientific investigation of the question to back my teaching, that the only difference between sneeze spray and quiet conversational spray is a matter of power—conversational spray carries less than five feet, consists of a smaller number of droplets. Loud or boisterous conversation, shouting, laughing, has a range of four or five feet; quieter conversation ordinarily shoots spray only two or three feet.

I don't know how to cage in everyday business and social life without getting peppered now and then by some ignorant or scoundrel—lay or medical. But I do believe intelligent appreciation of the hazard of conversational spray arms one with an additional safeguard against respiratory infection.

Looking Backward

Wednesday, June 16, 1915
At the sixty-fifth commencement of Lawrence college held at the Methodist church that morning, it was announced that Raymond B. Cramer of Appleton and Elsie F. Koppin of Green Bay had received first honors. Fifty-four diplomas were presented.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sprister had sold her 76-acre farm in Freedom to Fred Floth, a Civil war veteran.

10 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, June 11, 1930
About 1,200 Outagamie county rural school students, parents, teachers and friends pulled out of the Chicago and North Western depot that morning on two special trains for Washington, D. C., where the graduates were to receive their diplomas on the steps of the national capital. Each train consisted of 20 coaches.

The alarming unemployment situation in America and the pressing need for a solution were discussed by Dr. H. E. Peabody in a talk before the Rotary club at Hotel North-err Tuesday noon.

returned the queen of spades. I ruffed and, without much hope, laid down the heart ace. East's king was a beautiful sight to behold. What do you think of the contract?—D. G.
New York.

I think that South had a rabbit's foot in one pocket, a four leaf clover
in another, and a horse shoe around his neck. Without taking the time for rather involved computations, I should say it was about 12 to 1
against finding all the breaks necessary to bring home this slam. The club suit had to break 3-3 (roughly two to one), the diamond suit had to break 4-3, and finally,
the heart honors had to split precisely as they were, or the K-Q or K-Q-x in the East hand. Personally,
I should not care to play this contract if the missing cards were simply shuffled and dealt out to East and West.

Obviously, it was South who was the victim of acute enthusiasm in the bidding. Even with a two no trump response from partner, South's hand did not warrant anything like a jump bid to five-odd.
True, he had a fair six card suit, but his hand as a whole contained only three-plus honor tricks and his distribution was nothing to get excited about. Even a single jump to four hearts would have represented
a slight stretch.

I am inclined to think my remarks will be taken as rather academic, however, in view of the fact that the contract was triumphantly fulfilled.

Good Taste Today by Emily Post

"BEST MAN"
The writer of the following letter is quite right in believing it one of the least "ordinary" that I have ever received. "My twin brother and I have always been the best of pals. In fact, Mother has always said that I should have been a boy. Now that he is to be married, he wants me to stand with him at the wedding and be his 'best man.' I know this must sound quite out of the ordinary, but considering our lifelong affection, do you think we could do this? No wedding plans have been made yet
so I don't know whether his fiancée is thinking of having me take part or not."

Even though every one does understand the unusual devotion which exists between twins, my answer must be a protest against your doing as he suggests. Really, you can't be best man any more than you can ever have him for your maid of honor. It is true that it is almost unheard of not to have a groom's twin sister serve as bridesmaid at the wedding, and it is certainly likely that she will ask you to be bridesmaid—even though she has always intended to have a maid of honor alone.

On the other hand, every bride has a right to have only one attendant, or none, as she chooses,
and you could not expect to be chosen in place of her sister or her best friend. Sometimes brides do not know that it is proper to have a maid of honor and a bridesmaid walk together. They are dressed alike but the maid of honor is distinguished by holding the bride's

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

FAY HOLDEN, who charms millions with her role as Ma Hardy on the screen, teaches housewives how to be good to their hands. Left: Rubber gloves for dishwashing. Right: Rubber fingers for preparing vegetables.

Fay Holden, who has almost lost
her legal identity by playing Ma Hardy roles for the films, is very definitely a "Ma" at heart. Fay is a home girl, and she frankly admits that she adores women's work about a house—and gardening is her chief hobby. She understands the beauty problems of a housewife, and she must keep ever attractive in case the studio calls!

Says Fay: "It takes a minor investment of money in the beginning but every housewife who is interested in keeping her hands attractive can do so! I garden and do housework and cook so I'm not preaching what I do not practice!"

How She Does It
For dishwashing she wears rubber gloves and frequently anoints her hands with a lotion or cream,
which she keeps right handy in the kitchen, before she draws on the gloves. The heat of the water and suction of the gloves conspire to give her hands a thorough anointing and massage while she is getting the china washed!

When making salads, or preparing vegetables, the efficient Fay Holden wears rubber caps on her fingers. She buys them by the dozen, and they protect her longer nails and polish.

Being a thrifty soul, too, Fay
stacks of lemon rinds and pounces
on them to use as a skin bleach
whenever she washes her hands.
That is, she uses them to bleach bouquet during the ceremony and by standing on her right at the reception. In your particular case, an exception might be made in the seating of the bride. Correctly, the maid of honor sits on the groom's left. At your brother's wedding, the maid of honor might be expected to waive this right and let you take this place next to your brother.

Manners on the Street
Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me which way is proper—for one woman to hurry ahead and pick up a glove or a handkerchief or even a package dropped by another woman ahead of her, or simply to hurry ahead and tell the woman that she has dropped whatever it is and let her pick it up for herself. Would age have anything to do with the answer?

Answer: I should say that age
would have a great deal to do with the answer. A younger woman would naturally stoop to pick up something for an older one, and an older woman would not, under usual circumstances, stoop for a young one, but simply ask, "Isn't that your glove?" If the something dropped is out of reach of the younger and within easy reach of the older, the older would naturally pick it up for her. What to do when both are of about the same age? I think personal impulse and situation would provide the answer.
By "situation" I mean one like that just given. The one who can more easily reach it would do so spontaneously.

Collecting Old Recipes Is Useful, Interesting Hobby

BY ANGELO PATRI

One of the most precious possessions of a bride is the copy she has of the family cookbook. It is not one that is bought at a shop. It is a sturdy blankbook, usually a looseleaf, carefully indexed, in which has been entered the recipes that the family has used and liked for generations.
There is something in this book that goes beyond the listed ingredients of the dishes. The flavor and taste of home and family are in it, memories of delightful occasions when the host of relatives gathered round one table to celebrate some high occasion such as the fiftieth anniversary of the old folks' wedding, or the marriage of the last and youngest one of all. There is laughter and the sound of beloved voices in it, and hopes and griefs and desires and ambitions. All of family living that ever drifted across the table has left its traces in this book.

Boys as well as girls enjoy cooking. All the urge children need to take a turn at the stove is a clear way to it. Encourage them in the least and they go to it with enthusiasm worthy of a good cause. It is then that they start their cookbooks. Give them the cover, a few sheets of paper and a dose of encouragement and say, "Begin."

As they grow older and the cooking becomes more complicated and
the dishes more festive in character,
they begin searching for special recipes. Now is the time to bring out the family treasures. Grandmother's fruit cake for Christmas;
Aunt Susan's baked beans for Thanksgiving; mother's pancakes
for Halloween. There is romance and history in these old recipes, and they lend a charm to the dishes
to which youth responds like a duck to water.

Exchanging recipes is as pleasant a pastime as collecting and exchanging stamps, and much cheaper. Old recipes that pass from hand to hand in friendly generosity cost nothing but the kindness and understanding that prompted the gifts,
and they do gladden the hearts of those who get them.

At Her Fingertips
This whole matter came up when a bride was entertaining an old aunt who was a great cook.

Said Auntie Sprague, "I'd give a lot if I had your grandmother's rules for suet pudding with raisins.
I've tried to make it a dozen times but I don't quite get it. Hers was dry and crumbly and as light as fog,

and it tasted like heavenly manna.
My, I'd like to have that rule," and she sighed as one who relinquishes
a treasured dream.

"That would be Grandmother Hill's, wouldn't it? Why, I have that rule in my family cookbook,"
and out came the book resplendent
in plaid oilcloth, full of beautifully hand-printed recipes, each with its historical background in its place of honor. "Here it is. I'll copy it for you gladly."

Just think of the fun of having a recipe your grandaunt was looking for, right in your own book, directly from grandmother herself.
Things like old cooking recipes, old quilts, old china, shawls and footstools make a family rich in background, loyalty and affection. Why not begin a cookbook as a hobby expression for the children?

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Answer:
Why, the list would be as endless as life itself, for the duties that husbands and wives owe to each other never ends as long as they are alive, and they vary with every change of circumstances.

Husband, Wife Should Have Understanding of Duties

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—Perhaps the main missing link in the marriage bond is an understanding of what is a fair and equal division of the duties which both the husband and the wife must assume in order to make the tie that binds a silken fetter instead of a ball and chain. I often think that if before marriage a young couple would make a list of what each expected of the other it would do more than any other one thing to promote domestic felicity. Just a mere recognition of the obligations that went with a job to keep them from passing the buck to each other would prevent disagreements and frictions.
Could you suggest a list of the duties that husbands
and wives owe to each other?
F. Mc C.

To begin with, husbands and wives owe it to each other to be faithful and patient, kind and forgiving, and to treat each other with at least as much consideration as they would companion with whom to live. Among the specific obligations of a husband are: To be loyal to his wife. No man has a right to marry until he has had his fling of philandering and is ready to settle down to be the faithful husband of one wife. No toiling for a woman who never says
"thank you."

These are some of the things that husbands and wives owe each other.
If they paid their debts there would be no divorces.

Can Tell When Man Is in Love
Dear Dorothy Dix—We have tried and failed to find a man who really tells the truth. Each of us has had love affairs of short and long duration, but they have all turned out the same way. We have been fooled each time. Please tell us if there is any way to find out whether or not a man is serious when he tells us he loves us, and if, and when, we should believe him.

Answer:
According to the poet, "men were deceivers ever, one foot on land
and one on sea, to one thing faithful never." And, such being the case, no reliable test has ever yet been devised that will enable a woman to gauge the true state of a man's affections.

Not even the lie detector can be depended on, because men get so accustomed to making love to women that when they tell the 999th girl that she is the one they have been seeking all their lives, it doesn't even disturb their circulatory systems.

The only real, practical way of telling whether a man means what he says when he declares that he never loved before and that you are the only one in the world for him,
is when he backs it up with a bona fide proposal and begs you to name
the wedding day.

You can believe him then, but when he makes love and never mentions marriage it is just convention. A pleasing pastime, but no dice.

THE HOME GARDENER
by EDWIN H. PERKINS

House plants benefit from a summer outdoors. Placed in the garden where air is better and free from dust and gases, the plants show remarkable benefits from their vacation. It is much better to treat plants in this manner than to try keeping them confined, especially if the family will be away for a while.
When properly repotted and spotted, they need no more care than is given the outdoor plants.

Spotting outdoors consists in placing African violets and other shade lovers where they will be protected from direct sunshine, and properly
placing the sunlovers, such as geraniums.

Knock the plants from their pots.
If root-bound, indicated by masses
of roots wrapped around the pots
inside, place in the next larger size
pot. Shift from a three-inch to a four-inch pot or to any larger size
by one step only. Plants will not grow better if overpotted. Root confinement produces top growth.
Next add some fresh soil on top and
into it mix a teaspoonful of good fertilizer. You are now ready to plant the pot.

Dig a hole in the selected spot;
a dibber or pointed stick will make
the holes in light soil, a heavier tool is required in clay soils.

Insert the pot, water well and treat as an outdoor plant. Include
it in your spraying and dusting
program. Feed it again in a month
and repeat before cool weather,
when a better plant will be ready
for another indoor season.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Worries based on misinformation
and medieval superstition produce more pain and misery than cancer.
Here is a lovely girl whose marriage has thrice been postponed, just because she is a slave to the worst monster who ever plied fetters on the human race; namely, ignorance.
When your newspapers, and public libraries, your educators and professional men can quickly cut your bonds, by all means take advantage of the truth.

CASE Q-187: Hazel B., aged 23,
is engaged to be married.
"But she keeps putting off the wedding," her sweetheart objected.
This is the third time we have had it postponed.
"I wouldn't mind so much if she had a legitimate reason for doing so, but she doesn't seem to know why she acts like this.
"It isn't because she doesn't care
for me, since she is very ardent and affectionate. She protests she loves me with all her heart. But she seems to get panicky at the thought of our wedding day.

"It is deflating to my pride to have her show such avoidance of our marriage date. I don't know what to make of it. Would you mind talking to her, Dr. Crane?"

DIAGNOSIS:
The next week Hazel timidly entered my office. She hadn't voluntarily sought my advice, but was more or less coerced into the visit because of her sweetheart's insistence.

Without yet revealing her story,
we can pretty well anticipate several axioms of psychology which must apply to her case.

Since she is really in love with her fiancé, her procrastination cannot be laid to fondness for another man. And she isn't old enough to have the typical indecision and vacillation of the girl ten years older, who cannot make up her mind
whether to quit her career and a good office job in order to try do-mesticity.

Her father had died of a ruptured aneurysm due to syphilis of the blood vessels. And Hazel feared that she had syphilis, believing firmly in the old idea that this disease is hereditary.

Syphilis is not hereditary! A father cannot bequeath this disease to his child, if its mother is not infected. But a child can be born with syphilis, if its mother has the disease. The baby simply acquires or "catches" it from her during pregnancy as it might catch measles
from her, but it does not inherit syphilis or measles!

Truth shall set you free, so never be a slave to ignorance. Check and double check yourself with reputable authorities, if you have a worry, but never let ignorance fetter your happiness.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs if you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

LITTLE SPITFIRE

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: Isobel not only manages the household efficiently
in Adelaide's absence, but saves money. Both Mac and Eric are impressed. Meanwhile Ned Barrow has ingratiated himself with Abner Abernathy as Brenda planned.

Chapter 23
Hugh's Problem
Brenda knew the story of Hugh's quarrel with his wife now.

It was a strangely dramatic incident—if incident was a strong enough word. It appeared that soon after Linda and Hugh were married Linda's brother, assistant manager in a wholesale lumber company, had absconded with some of the company's funds. It was a large sum of money,
and the court had let it be known that the penalty meted out to the boy would not be too severe; but Jim McCaskey had fled in terror
from any punishment.

Late one night when Linda slept, Jim appeared at the studio, penitent, hungry, ragged. Hugh,
who was finishing some work, fed him and then talked to him. As one man to another, he appealed to him to give himself up, serve his sentence, and live down his one mistake. His employer would be glad to offer him his former place.

Perhaps Jim had found the world more terrifying to a fugitive than he had expected; perhaps his brother-in-law's eloquence overpowered a never-strong will.
At any rate, he agreed to the plan,
and, dressed in one of Hugh's suits
and with money in his pockets,
he had taken a train to the scene
of his theft before Linda was awake.

"I thought she would be glad"
the artist said bitterly. "Fool that I was, I was patting myself on the back all the time I told her about it. She'd worried, you see, about where the boy was; how he was.
She used to cry for hours sometimes, wondering if he was dead.
I told her all that was ended now.
That in a few years—maybe only a couple—Jim would be a free man, and all the past forgotten.
I told her it was the one and only way to make a man of him."

"And it was," Brenda said
of roots wrapped around the pots
inside, place in the next larger size
pot. Shift from a three-inch to a
four-inch pot or to any larger size
by one step only. Plants will not
grow better if overpotted. Root confinement produces top growth.
Next add some fresh soil on top and
into it mix a teaspoonful of good
fertilizer. You are now ready to plant the pot.

Dig a hole in the selected spot;
a dibber or pointed stick will make

treat as an outdoor plant. Include
it in your spraying and dusting
program. Feed it again in a month
and repeat before cool weather,
when a better plant will be ready
for another indoor season.

He gripped her arm tensely.
"Do that, Brenda! Why didn't you think of that before! Linda doesn't know you, she won't try to hide from you, you can show her my side of the story. She—"

"Hush!" Brenda cocked her head on one side and listened. "Didn't you hear a noise then, Hugh?"
"Confound the noise! Brenda,
you'll do this for me, won't you?
The expense is mine, of course—"

"It's behind those bushes, Hugh!
Do you suppose somebody's listening, or is it a dog?" Brenda burned said a severe voice.
"Nor intimate that I'm eavesdropping, either." Miss Ormond stalked into the open. "So this is what happens when I see you disappear around the old house so often! Brenda, I'm shocked beyond measure!"

Brenda patted the old doorstep on which she sat. "Don't be! It's broad daylight, you know. Come and sit down and visit awhile!"
But Miss Ormond was implacable. "I haven't time," she informed them. "I'm going straight home to write Anne Burnham about this. I shall send it air mail, special delivery."

"The girl frowned, Aunt Anne trusted her, but at that Brenda did not want her peace of mind disturbed. No telling what sort of interpretation the Ormond would put on these innocent meetings! A sudden inspiration descended on her.

"Hugh, may I tell Miss Ormond
what we've been talking about? It may be she will be able to advise us."

The cartoonist gazed at her blankly. He had reached that state of misery where he cared little for knew his story. He nodded a morose assent. So Brenda poured it all out, being careful beforehand to obtain a vow of silence from Miss Ormond.

The writer in the girl came to the front in this recital. She told it simply, not seeking to dramatize what,
she considered, was already dramatic enough. She was gratified halfway through the story to see Miss Ormond sink down on the step beside her, listening absorbedly.

"And Hugh is so worried about his wife that he feels he must talk about her or go mad," she finished.
"He and I both know there must be some very simple solution to the problem, but so far we've not been able to find it." She added artfully:
"Could you think of one, Miss Or-
mond?"

"Fiead Your Cause"
The eyes of the old teacher
brightened. "And you call yourselves creative artists, both of you!
With not a spark of imagination between you! There's just one person who can persuade Linda Saltus that her husband did the right thing for her brother."

"Who?" they exclaimed in one voice.

"The brother himself—this Jim!"
And as Hugh's mouth fell slightly open with surprise and even Brenda's pretty lips parted, she smiled
slyly. "You, Mr. Saltus—well, Hugh, then—write to the brother
and explain the situation; ask him to talk to your wife. She's in touch with him, you may be sure of that;
probably goes occasionally to see him when she can get away from work! If Jim is still convinced that your advice was good—and it was good, my dear boy, make no mistake about that!—then he'll be glad enough to plead your cause with Linda."

She rose, brushed dried leaves
from her coat, and said:
"Now there's no more of these clandestine meetings, children. If you, Hugh, feel you must talk about Linda you may do one of two things: send for me, or if you feel Brenda is younger and understands you better, ask her to meet you in my house."

She stalked ahead of them and left them staring after her.

Propose 4-Year High School to Relieve Grades

said, "As I told you the last time, nothing could be done until there is time to do it. I haven't had the time to investigate the matter."

"One must realize," Mr. Rohan continued, that the west end of the city also is involved and too many problems have been solved for specific areas in other years. It requires study."

"We can't let grass grow under our feet," Mr. Kersten said, "you've been thinking about it since 1935."

Mr. Rohan said an addition at Franklin school would mean vacant space in Morgan school, a new school in Grand Chute would mean empty classrooms in Appleton and the completion of St. Theresa church might make a difference.

A. W. Wilkinson, member of the committee, asked whether the board did not have alternate plans to deal with the Grand Chute situation. He thought the board should have a concrete picture of the situation so that it would be prepared to do one thing if Grand Chute did build a school and another if Grand Chute did not. In any event, the Grand Chute factor is not a decisive one in the Franklin school problem, he said.

Want Lighter Load

Kersten said St. Theresa is correcting an overcrowded condition and the release of the former church building for school activities will mean the enrollment of additional pupils or incursion of more grades. The new church won't relieve congestion at Franklin he declared.

Homer Benton, board member, said "I think we must be able to show we're filled up before we can get money from the council for a new building." He suggested the possibility of solving the problem by transferring pupils.

"The sixth grade already is at Roosevelt and the fifth grade is in Columbus; now it looks as if the fourth grade will have to be moved out," Kersten said. "A pupil must attend three different schools to complete his elementary education in our section of the city." D. G. Lehman pointed out that transfer of the fourth grade to some other school would mean more youngsters crossing Wisconsin avenue and Oneida street, creating additional traffic hazards.

Kersten injected the idea of transferring the freshmen to the high school and said the board already was violating the grouping of the junior high school system because the sixth grade was at Roosevelt. Wilkinson asked whether a return to the 4-year high school system would not solve the problem in other areas of the city particularly the Washington school area.

Washington Problem Solved

"That already is taken care of," Mr. Rohan replied, "the fifth and sixth grade is in Wilson school." He said

Dinner-Supper Party At Stephenville Home

Stephenville — Dinner and supper was served to about 150 relatives and friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Casey Sunday in honor of the latter's sister, Sister M. Myra of Hayes, Kans., who has spent several days visiting relatives here. Sister Myra was the former Miss Florence Wittlin of Ellington.

A daughter was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kettner at their home.

Mrs. Jim Makens, Burtons, S. D., is spending several days visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Braun and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kreutzberg and son Allen were dinner and supper guests Sunday at the Ervin Turkow home at Neenah.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sturm, route 2, Appleton, entertained relatives at their home Sunday. Dinner and supper guests included: Mr. and Mrs. George Wynboom and son Donald, Little Chute; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Heid, Mr. Chris Schmidt, Miss Mary Schmidt, Appleton; George Schmidt, Mackville; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Breitrick, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Schmidt and family, Stephenville.

11 Cases of Contagion Reported During Week

Eleven cases of contagious diseases were reported to the city health department last week, according to Claude N. Greisch, deputy health officer. Included were one case of tuberculosis, two of mumps, one of whooping cough and seven of chicken pox. Remaining in the city at the end of the week were nine cases of chicken pox and one case of whooping cough.

There was room in the Morgan, Edison and McKinley schools for more pupils.

In a 2-hour discussion, the groups agreed another four rooms were needed for Franklin school pupils and considered the possibility of an addition, temporary barracks or a new, small unit west of Erb park.

H. C. Crane chairman of the committee, said "We have presented the problem and now it's up to the board to solve it." Kersten asserted "we can't just think about it any longer."

After Mr. Rohan suggested co-operation in gathering necessary information, Crane said "we have all the information we need to know that additional facilities are required."

The committee at the last meeting submitted an analysis of a fact-finding survey which involved a house-to-house canvass checking of home construction records. The figures purported to show that housing for Fourth and Sixth ward pupils was inadequate and that the situation will become more acute.

Members of the board decided to visit Franklin school at 8 o'clock Thursday morning as a step toward solution of the problem.

Germans Assert Troops are Dozen Miles From Paris

points," said the daily communique of the high command.

"One enemy group is cut off near St. Valery and encircled on the coast."

"Northwest of Paris divisions standing on the Oise are 20 kilometers outside Paris and the outer defense position running along both sides of Senlis."

"Compaigne, scene of the disgraceful armistice dictate of 1918, and Villers-Cotterets are in our hands," said the high command.

It was in a forest near Compaigne that the World war armistice was signed Nov. 11, 1918, in Marshal Foch's sleeping car headquarters.

Allied forces on the lower Seine were said to have been pushed across the river with "heaviest" losses.

The German claim to hold Rouen and Reims—cities of more than 100,000 peacetime populations—would represent two great footholds northwest and northeast of Paris, respectively, with which to reinforce the projected engulfment of Paris.

Rouen lies about 70 miles northwest of Paris on the coastal, lower Seine flank and Reims about 80 miles to the northeast.

The Nazi air force smashed at shipping in the English channel besides operating as "aerial artillery" for the German advance.

Seven transports, one of 500 tons were said to have been sunk and 10 others, three of which were between 10,000 and 15,000 tons, damaged by bomb hits.

Fifty-nine allied planes and three barrage balloons were reported destroyed in the last 24 hours as against three missing for the Germans.

Le Havre, one of the principal French harbors remaining in French hands, was bombed anew.

The high command highlighted its report of the great drive to encircle Paris and crush the French armies in these words:

"The new operation begun June 5 between the English channel and Laon led to full success. After the Weygand zone south of the Somme had been taken the lines of the retreating enemy were broken through at several points and the remainder were pushed back across the lower Seine with heaviest losses."

Warns Against Dumping Refuse Along Highways

Arnold Krueger, county highway commissioner, today warned against the dumping of rubbish along highways in the county. The practice is against the law, he advised, and prosecution will be made for violations. The county highway department has experienced considerable trouble from the practice this spring, the commissioner stated.

Nelson Outlines Progressive Plan of Attack in Campaign

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — How the Progressives are trying to counter-act the political effect of the economy claims of the Heil administration in the 1940 election campaign now beginning is disclosed in the campaign speeches of Senator Phil Nelson of Maple, regarded by many as the leading candidate thus far for the Progressive gubernatorial nomination.

According to Nelson, the economies wrought by the Heil administration in the management of the state government are inconsequential and trivial in comparison with the total cost of the state government which is now higher than ever before in history, and are not as important in amount as the tax concessions given by the Republicans to particular interests, and especially the utilities.

The allies and an accelerated preparedness tempo.

The senate voted 67 to 13 to empower him to "trade in" world war weapons—from rifles to field artillery—to manufacturers, who then would be free to re-sell them to the allies.

The authority was incorporated in a defense bill providing for unlimited expansion of the army air corps, government construction or leasing of munitions plants, a presidential curb on the export of essential war materials, and voting $132,000,000 for preparedness expenditures at the chief executive's discretion.

The omnibus bill, most of which the house previously approved, was returned to that chamber for concurrence in the arms "trade in" and some other amendments.

Equal celerity of senate action was expected on the request Mr. Roosevelt made yesterday for a $50,000,000 fund to succor the civilian populations in the war zone. He said he felt that the government should add to the money being raised by the Red Cross.

Will Sign Bills

At the White House Mr. Roosevelt signed the $1,400,000,000 naval appropriation bill, and was ready to put his signature on two more. The house sent him a measure authorizing an 11 per cent expansion in the battle fleet and an increase in navy air strength. From the senate came the regular $1,821,853,222 army appropriation bill.

Mr. Roosevelt gave his endorsement to the organized "stop Hitler now" movement at a press conference yesterday. He had on his desk a copy of a full-page newspaper advertisement, sponsored by the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, urging the United States to help by giving all possible aid to the allies with planes and other supplies.

attacks on French Tunisia and Corsica.

(The British also said their planes bombed Italian air bases in Libya and Eritrea, in East Africa, and that South African planes raided Italian Moyale, near Kenya colony.)

(At Nice, all was reported quiet on the Riviera border, although all bridges between Italy and France were reported blown up.)

Departure of British Ambassador Sir Percy Loraine and his staff was marked by roughing up of Thomas McEvoy of Life magazine as he took flashlight pictures of United States Ambassador William Phillips bidding farewell to Sir Percy.

Four men at the central railway station, declaring the flashes violated blackout restrictions, tried to smash McEvoy's camera, but failed when he resisted. He was questioned by an interpreter in a side room. He was released and his films were returned.

Ambassador Phillips also said goodbye to French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet who left earlier with some 250 French citizens.

New Mobilization Plan

The presence of large numbers of men of fighting age on the city streets in civilian clothes was explained as evidence of a new Italian theory of mobilization.

Army men said parts of many classes were called to the colors, rather than entire classes, so that the army constantly would be composed of a mixture of veterans and youthful fighters.

The government moved swiftly to place the nation on a wartime basis, in the wake of new decrees increasing the penalties for law violations, while a strict blackout was enforced.

A "war zone" was declared yesterday, including the Piedmont area facing France, the Tyrrhenian coast on the west, parts of the Appennine mountains to the sea in the northwest, the province of Taranto and Calabria in the southeast, Sicily, Sardinia and nearby islands.

Road Oiling Program To Start Within Week

The county's summer road oiling program will get under way during the next week, according to Arnold Krueger, county highway commissioner. About $20,000 will be spent on the oiling program. While the entire list of roads to be oiled has not been completed, Krueger said early oiling is planned on County Trunk E from Freedom to the Brown county line and on 2½ miles of County Trunk A.

Mary Wallace Is Married in Stephensville Church Service

MISS Mary Wallace, route 1, Hortonville, became the bride of Frank Bongert, son of Mrs. Caroline Bongert, route 3, Shoshone, at a nuptial mass at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Stephensville. The Rev. R. Schauer performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Julia Wallace, and the bridesmaids, Miss Ann Bongert, while Lester Brennan was best man and Lester Brennan was the groom. The latter two are cousins of the bridegroom. John Bongert attended his brother as best man and Vincent Wallace, brother of the bride, was the other attendant.

A wedding dinner was served to 50 guests at the home of the bride and a reception took place. This evening a wedding dance will be held at the Silver Dome in Greenfield.

The bride, a graduate of Appleton high school with the class of 1935 and of Outagamie Rural Normal school at Kaukauna, has been teaching in this county for the last four years. Mr. and Mrs. Bongert will make their home on the bridegroom's farm near Oshkosh.

Captain-Alberts

The Rev. Louis Alberts, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Greenfield, performed the ceremony uniting his nephew, Harold J. Alberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Alberts, 217 W. Brewster street, to Miss Irene La Captain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry La Captain, Casco.

Two Delegates Are Named for Lomira Confab

JEAN TRAUTMANN and Betty Lou Greb were elected delegates to the missionary convention of the Evangelical church to be held at Lomira July 18 to 21, at the picnic and outdoor meeting of the Young People's Missionary circle of Emmanuel Evangelical church last night at Erb park. Eighteen members were present: Buda May and Pearl Keller were in charge of the program which was taken from the study book, "Right Here at Home."

Because of the dinner which women of Zion Lutheran church will serve next Sunday in celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the Rev. Theodore Martin, pastor in the Lutheran ministry, there will be no meeting of Zion Lutheran Ladies' society this week. The dinner will be served beginning at 1:30 Sunday morning and Mrs. Louis Thies will be chairman assisted by Mrs. Harvey Kusche and Mrs. Henry Bastjan.

Annual 'Schut' Scheduled Sunday at Hollandtown

Hollandtown—At the meeting of the St. Francis society of St. Francis church Sunday, June 16, was chosen for the annual "Schut" day, sponsored by St. Francis society.

This will mark the ninety-first anniversary of the schut in this parish. This custom originated in Holland over 900 years ago where it was celebrated with much feasting. It was established in this parish soon after the first settlers arrived.

"Franciscus Bosch," as Hollandtown was then called was settled on June 8, 1848, by a number of Holland people who accompanied the Rev. Father Gethard who was returning to this country from a trip abroad. Some of these immigrants settled at Freedom, Little Chute and De Pere.

In 1849, a number of settlers had joined the others, and Father Gethard and a small log hut was erected, which served as a church and pastoral residence. It was used for a few years. This church was named St. Francis Schut. During this time the St. Francis society was organized. The society has held its schut annually since.

A bird made of some tough wood supported by belting and tin is attached to a pole 80 feet high at which the St. Francis society members shoot with their rifles in their tens. Prizes are given to the one taking off the head, wings and tail. The shooter taking the last fragment of the bird off the pole is declared "king" of Hollandtown for the coming year and wears the purple "coat" decorated with traditional medals of former "kings." Frank Schmidt will defend his crown this year.

The day's program will begin with mass at 8 o'clock. St. Francis society members receiving communion in a body. Following the mass the members meet at Van Abel's tavern at 10 o'clock, form a parade each with his rifle.

At the grounds the band plays a selection. Father Raymakers recites a prayer for all deceased members, all those that shoot are enrolled and form a circle around the

A fellowship breakfast will be held at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Conway hotel, with Mrs. Walter Brummund as chairman. Awards and honorable mention citations to agents will be announced. The general session opens at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in Masonic Temple.

Lappen to Determine Indian's Whereabouts

On Day of 2 Murders

Sheriff John Lappen today was in Minneapolis with Milford Archquette, Oneida Indian, to determine whether the latter was in that city on May 11, the day that Mrs. Ann Van Camp and her son, William, were murdered at their farm home near Freedom.

Archquette said that he and a companion had slept in a boxcar at Minneapolis, and that on May 11 they had been given food at a Minneapolis hotel. The following day Archquette said, he had been in Willmar, Minn. Willmar authorities corroborated his statement that he had been in Willmar on that day.

The Indian, who had been an employee at the Van Camp farm, has been held at the county jail for questioning.

Body of Postal Inspector Found

John W. Blair, 46, Was Stationed in Appleton Three Years

The body of John W. Blair, 46, a post office inspector formerly stationed in Appleton, was found in the Eau Claire post office washroom late yesterday, the Associated Press reported. Coroner R. H. Stokes of Eau Claire county said Blair had taken his life.

The inspector, who is survived by the widow and two children, came to Appleton June 1, 1935, and left in September of 1939, according to records at the Appleton post office.

He was next assigned to a territory in Nevada, with headquarters at Reno, and was sent from there to Eau Claire.

Take Out Papers or Lose Jobs, Chicago Firm Tells Employees

Chicago—(U)—All aliens employed in a Chicago restaurant chain faced the choice today of getting their first citizenship papers within a fortnight or losing their jobs. "If they don't take out papers, they'll have to look for work elsewhere," declared President Robert J. Eitel of the firm bearing his name. "Those who are not satisfied with this country should be shipped back."

Eitel and two brothers, all restaurateurs, were born in Germany and long have been American citizens. Among 1,000 employees, 75 were found to be aliens, nine of them Germans, Eitel said.

MEETING
FRIDAY NIGHT
8 P. M. of the Bucholz Sanitary District

Townsend Pension Plan Could Curb Reds, Club Told

Vose Says Idea One of Most Dependable to Defeat Movement

George Vose, Kalamazoo, Mich., speaking before 300 persons at an Appleton Townsend club meeting at the courthouse last night, said the Townsend recovery plan was one of the most dependable ideas to defeat and curb the development of communism and other foreign political moves within the United States.

"A survey of the Red organizations within the United States indicates that 99 per cent of the members are unemployed," Vose said "and 92 per cent of their membership is made up of youths under 33 years of age. In other words the membership is composed of persons who have been denied steady employment during the last 10 years."

The speaker commented on the monetary system and the scarcity of money as practiced and advocated by the national administration. He spoke with approval of Wisconsin and the development of the Progressive idea.

Walter Melchior, Progressive candidate for congress in the Eighth district, spoke on the war issue. He said:

"I believe in adequate defense against all forces of the world. If we need three billion dollars to defend ourselves, let us raise it and spend it without Democratic hysteria."

"Our democracy has absolutely no interest which requires participation in this war to the extent of slaughter of American soldiers and profit to the people who do not go to war. If we remain honestly neutral and follow George Washington's advice, we can advance the cause of democracy."

It was announced by the executive committee that the Townsend club will hold its annual picnic at Pierce park Sunday, June 23.

Pool Committee to Inspect Tanks at Racine, Milwaukee

Mayor Goodland today sent letters to the members of the city's special swimming pool committee inviting them to inspect swimming pools at Racine, Milwaukee and Waukesha Tuesday.

The pool at Racine was built by the Hunter Swimming Pool, Inc., one of the firms which offered plans to Appleton Monday. The pools at Milwaukee and Waukesha are of various types built over the years.

The inspection caravan will leave city hall at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning and will inspect the Racine tank at 10 o'clock. The group will return to Milwaukee for dinner and inspect Milwaukee pools in the afternoon. The Waukesha pool will be viewed on the way back to Appleton.

Child's 'Bellyache' May Be a Warning

In a report before the American Medical association Dr. Clarence E. Bird of Providence, R. I., said ulcers of the stomach and duodenum are more common than has been supposed and must be suspected when abdominal pains occur.

Two of the warning symptoms, he declared, are pain and refusal to eat.

DENIES CHARGE

George Welhouse, town of Kaukauna, pleaded not guilty of concealing mortgaged property when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Trial was set for June 17.

It Is Said--

That one of the city street sweepers had an exciting time for several minutes this afternoon when he and his cleaning box became involved in an incident with a runaway car. The driver of the car had cranked the machine, which apparently was in reverse gear, and the cleaning cart, with the sweeper caught between it and the car, scraped along the street gathering up screaming noises that were intermingled with the cries of the street sweeper. Dashing along behind the car, trying to catch it, was the owner. Finally he succeeded and stopped the machine, much to the relief of the street sweeper.

A typographical error in the city council's minute book on Jan. 6, 1938, makes it practically impossible to pay the fine for not cutting shrubs on city parkways, to say nothing about raising the money. The penalty, according to the minute book is "not less than $1,000 or more than $25." The minutes should have read not less than $1 or more than $25.

Assemblyman C. J. Peik Will Seek Re-election

Chilton—Assemblyman Carl J. Peik, town of Chilton, has announced his candidacy for reelection on the Progressive ticket. Peik, in a talk before the Young Progressives this week, accused the Republicans of using pressure tactics on their own legislators. He said that he had formerly been a Republican but that developments at Madison had caused him to realize that the Progressive party was the party of the farmers and laborers.

Urges Loans So Small Firms Can Get Orders

Washington—(U)—Marriner S. Eccles, federal reserve head, suggested today before a senate banking sub-committee that congress broaden the power of the federal reserve system to make direct industrial loans so that "small business" could share in the "war orders."

"No doubt a great number of small businesses will be able to get contracts in the very fields that the government will require," Eccles said. "They will need some capital."

Child's 'Bellyache' May Be a Warning

New York—(U)—Don't sniff at a child's complaint of "bellyache," parents and physicians were told today.

In a report before the American Medical association Dr. Clarence E. Bird of Providence, R. I., said ulcers of the stomach and duodenum are more common than has been supposed and must be suspected when abdominal pains occur.

Two of the warning symptoms, he declared, are pain and refusal to eat.

DENIES CHARGE

George Welhouse, town of Kaukauna, pleaded not guilty of concealing mortgaged property when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Trial was set for June 17.

It Is Said--

That one of the city street sweepers had an exciting time for several minutes this afternoon when he and his cleaning box became involved in an incident with a runaway car. The driver of the car had cranked the machine, which apparently was in reverse gear, and the cleaning cart, with the sweeper caught between it and the car, scraped along the street gathering up screaming noises that were intermingled with the cries of the street sweeper. Dashing along behind the car, trying to catch it, was the owner. Finally he succeeded and stopped the machine, much to the relief of the street sweeper.

A typographical error in the city council's minute book on Jan. 6, 1938, makes it practically impossible to pay the fine for not cutting shrubs on city parkways, to say nothing about raising the money. The penalty, according to the minute book is "not less than $1,000 or more than $25." The minutes should have read not less than $1 or more than $25.

Wants President to Clarify His National Defense Program

Post-Crescent Washington bureau Washington—Congressman Frank B. Keefe, Oshkosh Republican, called on the president to inform congress what he intends to do with defense appropriations and "what his program for national defense really is."

It makes a great deal of difference whether we are to defend not only this country but the entire western hemisphere and whether we are to defend ourselves from aggressions from South and Central American points or whether we are to defend ourselves from aggression emanating from European points. Keefe declares, "Up to date," he says, "I have been unable as a member of congress to find out just what the foreign policy in this connection really is."

The congress has demonstrated that it is wholeheartedly in favor of providing the funds necessary to give to the army and navy the equipment required from suitable and adequate national defense," he continues. "The congress, however, owes a duty to the people of this nation to see to it that the money which is appropriated results in something more than mere blueprints and equipment 'on order' and that the defense units of this nation are actually provided with the instruments that will provide a suitable defense."

Terminating it "the solemn duty of congress to remain in session," Keefe objects most strenuously to "giving blank checks to the president to spend as he pleases." He also strongly objects to pending legislation which would give the president power to call out the national guard without a declaration of an emergency by congress.

Full Re-Armament

Although there is some talk of letting Congress adjourn in a few weeks, such talk cannot be taken seriously. Congress has not yet begun to take the measures which are now certain to be necessary.

For no matter what the outcome of the battle in western Europe, no matter what the course we are compelled to take, no matter what the policy we may now think we should like to take, one thing is certain. For peace or for war, for isolation or intervention, for neutrality or non-belligerence, the United States must not only become a fighting force as it is capable of becoming but it must be organized and disciplined, unified and integrated, in order to withstand the shocks to which it will be subjected. Come what may, the easy-going days are over, and unless the nation is brought at once to a wholly new mood of duty, sacrifice, and honor, it will drift and be pushed and be hurried down the path of disorder and humiliation.

The defense program is much more than a matter of ships, guns, and airplanes; it is a matter of organizing the collective power of the whole nation so that it may be able to deal on something like equal terms with the mighty collective power which threatens to engulf the whole of Europe and Africa. The notion that separate and competing American firms and separate American farmers could deal separately with a continental system of monopoly under an all-powerful dictatorship is a tragic delusion. Should the Nazis win, only an organized collective power of equal force and authority can protect this hemisphere from becoming in fact, whatever the fiction which masks it, a colonial dependency of the new Europe. This hemisphere was once composed of the colonies of Europe. It will again become a hemisphere of colonies and dependencies and vassal states if we do not quickly stop thinking of defense as a mere matter of appropriating money, if we do not make up our minds to see it as requiring a national reorganization and a profound discipline and a purification of the spirit.

Must Adjust Minds to Greatness of Task
The sooner we adjust our minds and our spirits to the greatness of the task we have to carry out, the less we shall repeat the fatal errors of Mr. Chamberlain and Sir John Simon and of the leaders of the British Labor Party. The Allies are where they are because they would not take seriously the danger which threatened them, and because they underestimated what needed to be done, and because they shrank until it was too late from the hard but indispensable measures that were obviously necessary. There is no hysteria but only elementary common sense in saying that a policy of too much and too soon, if that is any longer conceivable, is infinitely preferable to a policy of too late and too little. For if we start to prepare more thoroughly than is eventually necessary, it will have cost us some money and some effort. But if we prepare less thoroughly than the event requires, it may cost us our lives, our fortunes, and our very independence.

To prepare thoroughly, systematically, rapidly and efficiently no nation can any longer rely upon the voluntary system. An economy of peace can be converted into an economy of preparedness for modern war only under a national plan based upon authority and the power to command, upon an iron discipline, and in the broadest sense, upon a national re-armament.

It will require the adoption of universal service, not merely to enlist and train the military forces, but no less in order to make it indubitably clear to the exempted citizens—to the directors, executives, managers, bosses or employees—that they have been called into the service of the nation, and that they must think and act accordingly. In some form or other there will be required not merely the registration and identification of all men of all the adult inhabitants of the country. This is the surest protection of the innocent and they will welcome it; it is the basic instrument for the control of those who are not innocent. For only when every one is required to identify himself can the practice of sabotage which is already more serious than the general public knows, be brought under

It will be said by some that these measures call for the suspension of many of the liberties we prize and that they are not in accord with the American way of life as our generation has lived it. That is true. The national defense in a world of totalitarian dictatorships does require the suspension of many liberties and of many privileges. How could it be otherwise? This country cannot deliberately not to support an organized nation, and it cannot deliberately not to take measures to prevent the war and it cannot deliberately not to take measures to support the resistance of the Allies. We have now to pay for the consequences of our deliberate choices. The price will be heavy. Let us pay it like men.

And as we pay it like men, let us not fall into the confusion, now being propagated by alien interests, that our fundamental liberties are lost if we do not defend them. And let us have the confidence in ourselves and in our destiny to believe that if we have the lucidity and the courage to take the necessary measures deliberately and consciously and in accordance with the Constitution—instead of being pushed into them later by dire necessity—the sacrifices we now make in order to defend our liberties will harden and toughen our devotion to liberty.

Let us not be diverted by the muddle-headed and the super-sophisticated who have invented the idiotic paradox that men who fight for liberty have thereby lost it. If St. George fights the dragon, must he himself become a dragon? Our liberties were won by the soldiers of General Washington, and while they were in the field, those soldiers did not enjoy all the liberties they later wrote into the Bill of Rights. Nor when they were at Valley Forge did they enjoy what would now be called an American standard of life.

Yet somehow they were very good Americans, perhaps the best Americans there have ever been, and their spirit is a better example to us today than the qualms and the quivers of those who, in the name of liberty, can think only of reasons for not defending it.

President's Talk On War Situation Surprises Capital

Charlottesville Address of Unprecedented Nature, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Although President Roosevelt expressed the moral indignation of the American people over the unjustified entrance of Italy into the war, the national capital is somewhat flabbergasted at the severity of the language used and the unprecedented nature of the Charlottesville address itself.

LAWRENCE

It may be true that Washington with its fidelity to the formalities and amenities of international intercourse has been thinking in terms of what has been said by presidents in the past and is not yet used to the extraordinary developments which have been reflected in the news dispatches since the day four weeks ago when the sudden invasion of two neutral countries—Holland and Belgium—was undertaken by the Nazis to the horror of the civilized world. It may be that Washington is in part still far from oriented to the new march of events wherein old precedents and old forms are rapidly being swept aside. But it is a fact that while the speech was thrilling it would have been far more penetrating if it had been embodied in a joint resolution of both houses of congress, that is if it had been the expression of the representatives of all parties.

If, on the other hand, America plans to enter the war at some far distant date, if also the events yet to come are of a nature which will overshadow all that has preceded in sensational values, then the Charlottesville address of the president may yet seem a tame expression compared to what may have to be said to express the moral sense of a free people. For above all else the American people have been trained to sportsmanship and they do not like to see a bully fall on the underdog in a struggle for survival.

Welles Mission.
The talk here is that America might have said less because there is as yet no sign that America will participate as a full-fledged belligerent. If Mr. Roosevelt wishes to make the cause of democracy a matter for American concern in a military sense, then the Charlottesville speech will become a mere preliminary. Incidentally the prospect that America's influence as a mediator may disappear altogether would seem to have been envisioned by the president who no doubt recalls how coldly the axis powers treated the Welles mission and the sincere efforts of the United States to throw her economic resources into the balance in order to reconstruct the world if a durable peace could be ensured.

Unquestionably the president feels he is keeping abreast of public opinion and that America is about ready to take up arms in defense of human liberty. Otherwise he never would have ventured to call a spade a spade and to have spoken as bluntly about Italy.

There is, however, another possible explanation. Mr. Roosevelt recalls how President Wilson mobilized the opinion of the whole world behind the American entry into the war. If America is to go in again, it is necessary that all other so-called neutrals in the world should enter the fray too. If ever there was a time for collective action it is when freedom is being burned at the stake and when the smaller nations of the world can hardly see ahead any chance for independence or security if dictatorships are to spread their sovereignty to the four corners of the earth.

Mr. Roosevelt would probably like to see all the 21 republics of this hemisphere enter the war together. He probably would like to see the already conquered peoples aroused in hope so that they may somehow bring the pressure of a possible revolt to bear on the free nations elsewhere organize a world-wide crusade to rescue the fallen democracies.

Immediate Future
The present thinks of the immediate future as involving the very lifeblood of American security now. He does not consider the problem one of waiting for an attack in the dim and distant future. He considers what has happened already as an attack on America's way of life. He doubts less reasons that when Britain and France shall have been defeated is no time for the United States to begin to go it alone and wait for the invasions of South America or the restrictions on American export which will tend to break down our economic system.

Will the American people sanction active belligerence instead of non-belligerence, sending men as well as ships and materials overseas? Up to now it has been the favorite expression of the political leaders that they would not vote to send our troops overseas. In recent days sentiment has been changing. Today the question is whether America will wait as did Belgium and Holland for the aggressor to spring his surprises or whether the free peoples will join now and ward off the future blows.

The president would never have made his Charlottesville speech if he didn't think the people of America were ready to follow him into war to back up the assertion of the principles of freedom. He may or may not have correctly analyzed public opinion. Are the people ready to go to war and make real sacrifices for the preservation of democracy on earth? Washington would like to know and to hear especially from the middle west and far west where sentiment, it is believed here, is somewhat less aroused against Hitler and Mussolini than in the east.

Synod District Convention to be Held Next Week

Pastors, Lay Delegates And Lutheran Teachers Will Attend

Clintonville—The North Wisconsin-Supper Michigan district of the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran church will hold its annual convention in this city next week from June 17 to 21. Convention headquarters will be St. Martin's Lutheran church, of which the Rev. Walter O. Speckhard is pastor.

These district conventions are held annually, with the exception of every third year, when a national conference, or synod, is held. In 1941 the synod will convene at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Each church of the district affiliated with the Missouri synod is represented by its pastor and one lay-delegate. All teachers of the district will attend as advisory delegates. Present at the local convention will be approximately 120 pastors, 15 teachers and 95 lay-delegates.

In the North Wisconsin district there are 156 congregations, 29 preaching stations and 36 congregations not officially connected with the synod, whose pastors are invited to attend as advisory delegates. There are in the district 34 schools conducted by 95 installed teachers, 13 women teachers, 3 students, 13 candidates and 7 pastors. Altogether, the voting membership of the district is 11,304 and the communicant membership is 41,523 souls.

Advance Sessions Monday
The guests will arrive here Monday afternoon, when the advance committee meetings will be held. In the evening there will be an opening service at the church with communion. A synod representative will occupy the pulpit and the Rev. A. F. Gerhardt of Superior, Wis., will give the confessional address.

Regular convention sessions will begin at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. At 7:45 Thursday evening, a pastoral service will be held with the Rev. W. C. Baumann of Shawano delivering the sermon.

Housing facilities are being provided by members of St. Martin's congregation, with Martin Klump as chairman of the housing committee. The guests will sleep and have their breakfasts at the homes of their hosts. Dinners and suppers will be served by the St. Martin's Ladies Aid society in the church dining room, with Mrs. H. M. Jesse as general chairman.

The Ladies Aid society has been divided into four groups, each of which will provide meals for one day. The group for each day is headed by a committee with its chairman.

Thrift Club Party
Eleven couples of the Thrift club of St. Martin church held a week-end camping party at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Krueger at Little Arbor Vitae lake in northern Wisconsin. Those present besides the Kruegers were Messrs. and Mrs. Paul Kluth, William Below, Henry Smith, Otto Buehning, Frank McIntyre, Bernard Knapp, Henry Hedtke, Walter Wolff, V. C. Mack and Henry Zuhse. Absent from the group were Mr. and Mrs. Nick Schmidt, who were in Milwaukee where Mrs. Schmidt had spent the previous week.

The regular June meeting of the Thrift club and their husbands was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zuhse on Eighteenth street. Five hundred was played, after which a lunch was served.

St. Rose Missionary society held its closing meeting of the season Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Anton Bohr on S. Main street. Messrs. ## Clintonville Man Is Held on Arson Charge

Clintonville—William "Butch" Schmidt, 24, Clintonville, pleaded guilty to a charge of arson Monday evening in the court of Justice of Peace E. E. Larson in this city. He was bound over to circuit court at Waupaca, where he will appear before Judge Herman Severson. Schmidt was arrested after the fire at his shack Sunday evening. He admitted pouring gasoline around the inside of the shack and lighting the fire. Following his arrest he was confined to the Clintonville city jail. The shack, which he used for living quarters, was located in the rear of his brother's house on N. Bennett street.

BANNS ANNOUNCED

Bear Creek—Banns of marriage were announced Sunday by the Rev. J. C. DeVries at St. Mary's church for Miss Loretta Lorge of Neenah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Lorge of this village and Martin Kerkhoff of Appleton.

day evening, June 26, at the Masonic temple. This is the first social event to be sponsored by the newly organized group of girls. They will conduct an advance sale of tickets. Dancing will take place from 9 to 10 o'clock.

Property Owners Must Meet Costs Of Street Oiling

City Fund for Work Will Be Used to Purchase New Boilers

New London — New London residents who want the streets in front of their homes oiled this summer will have to have it done at their own expense as the result of action taken by the common council at a special meeting last night.

The sum of $2,000, which in the 1940 budget for street oiling was voted by unanimous vote of the general fund to be used for emergency purposes for the installation of new boilers in the city hall building, Mayor Lynn Springmire explained it was the only fund from which the city could safely draw. The street oiling appropriation is an annual one but Alderman Frank Meating pointed out that the $2,000 available was not even enough to make a good start on oiling all the streets which are in need of it, or for which oiling would be requested if done at the cost of the city.

The public property committee was instructed to draw up specifications for bids for two new boilers and a stoker and to present them at the next regular meeting.

A. J. Herres, janitor of Washington High school, was called upon for suggestions concerning the specifications for advertising.

Efforts will be made to have the boilers installed as a WPA project.

Change Park Plans

Mayor Springmire reported that a blanket project estimate such as was proposed for the Hatten Park problem last week would prove too expensive considering only one of the final estimates would be used and the rest would be wasted. When he called for a straw vote to decide the problem on the spot, Alderman William Litts, chairman of the park board, protested that the matter was being taken unfairly out of the board's hands and that the board was preparing to investigate all proposals thoroughly and present its recommendations before the council. This recommendation he promised for the regular meeting next week and his promise was accepted.

The board of public works was instructed to meet with City Attorney Ormond W. Capener and draw up a petition to the state highway department for the widening of the bridge over the floodway course on Highway 45.

Capener also reported errors appearing in the floodway condemnation transactions and efforts being made to straighten them out. In one case, one property owner was paid $100 for property which it was found later belonged to another, he reported.

Tavern license applications were discussed and Mrs. J. C. Freeman, city clerk, reported that only two have not filed applications for renewal because they were contemplating sale of the business. They are Len Rusch and A. A. Trambauer. The legal deadline for filing of application to secure a license effective July 1 is Saturday. After publication of all filed applications this week, they will be passed upon by the license committee and considered at the next regular meeting of the council next Tuesday evening.

Girl Scouts Launch Cookie Sale Campaign To Raise Camp Funds

New London — Girl Scouts of Troop 2 of the Methodist church today launched a sale of home-made cookies to raise funds for a summer outing. Deliveries of the cookies ordered this week will be made Saturday. Mothers of the girls will bake the cookies.

The Oak patrol under Mrs. Richard Cole will sponsor a food sale at the Fehrman-Kircher store building on S. Pearl street all day Saturday. On Thursday the patrol will hike to Poppy's Rock.

17 are Examined at Baby Health Center

New London — Seventeen children were examined at the baby health center sponsored at Washington High school yesterday by the Women's Civic Improvement league. Assisting the examining doctor were Mrs. C. D. Feathers, Mrs. Minnie Maloney and Miss Loretta Rice, school nurse.

New London — A determined 5-run rally in the last of the seventh inning fell one score short and cost the Methodist Men's club its second game of the Senior Men's league at Washington High school last night, 14 to 13, with the Edison Woodshop as the victors. The Edison led 13 to 6 at the end of the fifth. Don Broecker was the sparkplug for the Men's club, getting a perfect record in five times at bat for three runs.

Phil Court and Wilson pitched for the losers and Art Gotschalk and Scot Haezelberg for the winners. The Plywoods remained undefeated as they took Lufts Sluggers 16 to 13. Pitcher Ken Elsholtz kept the losers blanked the first three innings while the second for seven runs off pitcher Harry Young, giving the Plywoods a lead they held despite 10 runs gained by the Sluggers in the next two innings. Clarence Kroll was relief pitcher for the winners, George Krueger for the losers.

Home runs featured the Plywoods hitting. Lance Agiers, Lewis Glasnapp and Ken Greenlaw each getting one. Agiers starred at bat with four hits in four trips.

Thursday evening the undefeated Plywoods will meet the undefeated Edison Office and the Methodist Men will face Beckman's All Stars.

Council Grants $150 In Full Settlement Of G. A. Wells Claim

New London — The claim of G. A. Wells for $1,535 for injuries received in an accidental fall down the city hall boiler room steps several weeks ago was settled in full for $150 by the common council at a special meeting last night. ## Legion, Auxiliary Hold Final Meetings Until Next September

Hilbert — The William Brockman post of the American Legion and the auxiliary held business meetings Monday evening at the village hall.

At the auxiliary meeting, Mrs. Edgar Burkhardt, chairman of the poppy sale committee gave her report on the sale of poppies. Both the legion and auxiliary voted to adjourn meetings for July and August and convene again in September. A joint social hour followed the business meetings. Those receiving awards for high scores in five hundred were Nite Berg and Mrs. Henry Jensen, Jr., in rummy Mrs. Peter Meier and Mrs. Jay Thorse. Lunch and refreshments were served by the committee, Mrs. Mike Mullenbach, Miss Ruth Mullenbach and Mrs. Vernon Schomberg.

The Young Ladies sodality of St. Mary's Catholic church held its regular meeting Monday evening at the church hall. A social hour followed the business meeting with lunch and refreshments. Games were played.

Barney Chestner, a former resident and native of Calumet county, now of Los Angeles, Calif., arrived in this vicinity this week for a visit with relatives. At present he is a guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles Parker of Kaukauna.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hillman returned home Saturday from a three weeks wedding trip through the western states. They made the trip with a house trailer.

Mrs. Alfonso Suttner and family moved from Hilbert to Green Bay Tuesday.

Mrs. William Loose arrived here Tuesday from Westfield and joined her husband, who had been here since June 1. They will occupy the Suttner home. Mr. Loose is employed at the Soo depot.

Miss Ruth Mullenbach, operator at the local telephone office, began a week's vacation today.

Joseph, Cathrine, Mary, Leo, Margaret and James Gillsdorf, children of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gillsdorf of Hilbert are in at their home with measles. In November last year the children all had chicken pox shortly after their recovery they all had the mumps, now its measles. There have been several cases of measles reported in the village.

ATTENDS MEETING

Thomas Flanagan, Sr., superintendent of the Outagamie county asylum, left yesterday for Milwaukee to attend the annual meeting of trustees, superintendents, and matrons of county asylums in Wisconsin. The meeting will close Friday.

Tractive Effort of Automobile Decreases as Speed Is Raised

Clintonville—Ignorance of or indifference to the fact that the tractive effort of a car decreases with the speed is one of the principal causes of skidding and side-swiping accidents, according to a study of traffic mishaps made by Walter A. Olen, president of the Four Wheel Drive company.

The company president files clippings and other information on automobile and truck accidents which occur throughout the nation during the month of February.

Skidding and side-swiping accidents have increased considerably, especially on city streets and highways, during the last four years, the study shows.

Tests have shown that a car that has a tractive effort of 84 per cent at five miles an hour has only five per cent tractive effort at 40 miles an hour. Just what the percentage is at 60 or 70 miles an hour has not yet been ascertained.

"The element that keeps a car in its beaten path and under control is the side coefficient of friction and this also diminishes as the speed of the car increases," Mr. Olen points out. "On the law of averages, the coefficient of friction should be at least 60, that is 60 per cent of the weight."

The survey shows that the placing of too much weight in the front end of cars and trucks is also responsible for accidents, so that when the brake is applied as much as 65 to 75 per cent of the machine's weight will be placed on the front wheels.

Toll Rises

In February of 1939 there were 1,169 accidents with 129 deaths in which skidding or side-swiping were the cause, according to the survey. In February of this year, the number of accidents of this type had risen to 1,638 and the death rate to 173.

A large increase in this kind of accident is noted in open, improved highways and secondary roads in the nation. In February of 1939, accidents from skidding and side-swiping on improved highways and secondary roads numbered 897, with 85 deaths. In 1940, the number had risen to 2,260 with 414 deaths.

The greatest percentage of fatalities to accidents is on curves. In February of last year, there were 67 curve accidents with 14 deaths, in February of 1940, the accidents numbered 227 and the deaths 53. The rate in 1939 was one death for every sixth accident on a curve and in 1940, one fatality for each 45 accidents.

TONIGHT'S GAMES
Little Chute at Appleton (8:15).

The first night game in the Outagamie County league will take place at Appleton tonight at Spencer street field between the Appleton Adler Braus and the Little Chute A.A. The game is a postponed one from a few weeks ago.

The Chute will be out gunning for a victory as they have a chance to win the first half bunting while Appleton also is in the thick of the fight.

Snooky Van Dyke will be on the mound for Little Chute with Dazz Van Thiel receiving Red Boots will be in reserve for the hill should the going get rough for Van Dyke. Boots is a portender while Van Dyke is a right hander. At first base, Don Peeters will cavort with Tucker Lamers at second. Van Gompel at short, Freddy Hammen at third and Leaky Lamers, Red Boots and Jansen or Van Asten in the outfield.

Hitting power was shown by the Dutchmen in last Sunday's contest against Greenville Grange with the Chute's combining Schleiweider for 13 hits.

Tommy Reider or Bob Van Ryzin will be on the mound for Appleton with Kloe or Bill Besch receiving. The game will start at 8:15.

Errors Figure In Brewer Loss

Milwaukee Drops 3 to 1 Decision to Toledo Mud Hens

Toledo, Ohio — (P) — Two errors proved costly to the Milwaukee Brewers last night and they dropped a 3 to 1 decision to the Toledo Mud Hens.

Lefty Paul Sullivan, the Milwaukee hurler, duelled on even terms with Johnny Whitehead, late of the majors, and might have fared better, except for bobbles by shortstop Claude Corbett and one of his own. Both teams got eight hits.

It was Whitehead's third straight victory since joining Toledo after his release from the St. Louis Browns.

The score by innings:
Milwaukee 000 100 000—1 8 2
Toledo 010 011 000—3 8 0
Sullivan, Kline (8) and Garbaruk, Whitehead and Spindler.

The American association's pace-setting Kansas City Blues had little trouble winning from Columbus by a 5 to 1 score. Hendrickson held Columbus to four hits in scoring his fifth consecutive victory.

Minneapolis kept pace with the Blues, defeating Indianapolis 9 to 7. St. Paul pounded four Louisville hurlers to score a 6 to 2 victory.

Ailing Pitcher Is Cedar Rapids' Ace
By the Associated Press
Manager Ollie Marquardt had a fight hunch on Ray Post, ailing pitcher, which explains to some extent Cedar Rapids' sensational winning form in the early weeks of the Three Eye league season.

Post, former University of Illinois pitcher, was of little use in 1939 after injuring his salary wing in 1938. Marquardt, however, decided to give Post another chance after watching him this spring.

The young hurler won five of his first six starts and completed all six games. At the present writing he's the ace of the Raider staff, which has been holding the team around the top.

The weatherman gave all of the teams a night off last night. Rain and wet grounds postponed a doubleheader between Evansville and Decatur and three single games—Madison at Waterloo, Cedar Rapids at Clinton and Moline at Springfield.

According to the present Beloit college 1941 track and field schedule, she will be host to the fifth annual Beloit Relays carnival, the Midwest Conference meet, the Wisconsin State College meet, plus several dual meets.

Veteran Stars Dominate Field In Women's Meet

Begin Second Round of Trans-Mississippi Golf Tourney

BY HENRY B. JAMESON
ST. LOUIS — Five veteran stars dominated the field of 16 women golfers in the second round of the Trans-Mississippi tournament today but a quartet of "lads" were nipping at their heels as promising dark horses.

Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Texas, national champion and tournament medalist, was favored to take her match from Georgia Dextromer, St. Louis district champion, but not without a struggle.

Teasing off right behind her, Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., who won the title in 1935-36, meets her first, real competition in Jeanne Cline, 16-year-old Bloomington, Ill., school girl and one of the coming queens of the links.

Another one of the youngsters attracting wide attention was Kathleen Carey of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Vassar college champion, who plays Kay Pearson of Houston Texas. Miss Pearson recently defeated Betty Jameson in the Southern States tourney.

Defending Champion
Patty Berg of Minneapolis, defending champion, was expected to overpower Mrs. Mahlon Wallace of St. Louis, while Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee, medalist in the 1934 national, faced the most talked-of "kid" in the tournament.

This young star was Sarah Adams, Stephens college champion from Richmond, Ky. The little 18-year-old redhead looks like Patty Berg and stands a good chance of clinching with the great northern star in the semi-finals.

Diminutive Phyllis Otto, 15-year-old sweetheart of Atlantic, Iowa, who buzzed through her first match with veteran coolness to become one of the "dark horses," was paired against Mrs. Chester Keating of St. Louis.

Commissioner of Conference Given Complete Powers
Sun Valley, Idaho — (P) — Edwin N. Atherton, one time FBI agent, now commissioner of the Pacific Coast conference, was given new powers by faculty athletic representatives yesterday.

At the same time, the graduate managers rejected a proposal to eliminate spring football training. The new setup gives Atherton complete power immediately in interpreting rules and making decisions in cases violating the code.

Members not satisfied with his ruling will have the right of appeal but such cases will be taken up by faculty men only at regular meetings—held semi-annually.

The faculty group, however, remains as a court of last appeal. Atherton's work of spring football training was discussed by the graduate managers following agitation by coaches of other sports who claimed gridiron routine prevented them from having use of athletes.

Here is the group of girls who attended the tennis instruction class for the younger group at the high school courts yesterday as they sat around for a lesson on how to score a game and match. They had already been given instruction in how to stand, grip the racket and stroke the ball and were given the scoring review as a few minutes of relaxation. George LaBorde and Bill Pickett, the two instructors, played a brief game with the girls asked to announce the score after each play. Just about the time the camera clicked for this picture some one had answered wrong and Pickett is expressing amazement at the error. There were three classes yesterday for girls and women. ## Trinity Scores 20 to 6 Victory Collects 21 Hits Off Four Evangelical Pitchers In Church League

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
"T" HEYRE stroking the ball better and they seem to know more about the game.

That was the comment of George LaBorde and Bill Pickett, instructors for the Appleton Post-Crescent's second annual tennis school as the first week's lessons were held at the Appleton High school courts. And that was something of a good sign because it meant that tennis is being taken seriously by more persons and that perhaps one of these days Appleton will have a couple ranking netters.

Classes for the boys and men were held Monday evening with fair turnouts. Classes for the girls were held yesterday afternoon with large turnouts while last night a class for older girls and women drew a capacity crowd—and it was only half of the group which registered.

The second group of older girls and women will receive instructions at 6:30 this evening. Tonight's class completes the first week of instruction and if every one will practice for the next five days, when the second lessons are held next week, things will be much easier.

Next week's instruction again will have the boys attending Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. At 6:30, the older boys and men will attend. And there's room for several more persons in each class.

Next Tuesday afternoon the youngsters which received instruction yesterday at 3 o'clock, 4 o'clock and 6:30 will again meet. And of course, tonight's 6:30 class will meet next Wednesday night at 6:30.

The grip, position and the forehand stroke featured instruction this week. LaBorde and Bill Pickett instructed the groups first, then they gave each person individual attention. Following that there was a long period—too long for the untried and not long enough for the more ambitious—during which the players batted the ball against the wire fence to learn how to stroke "greatest proficiency in athletics and scholastic work," one being named from each school. Each school's recipient is chosen by the institution's athletic board of control.

INDIAN VET RETIRES
Indianapolis — (P) — Leo T. Miller, president of the Indianapolis American Association Baseball club, announced yesterday the voluntary retirement of Nolen Richardson, veteran shortstop. Miller said Richardson would end 15 years of professional baseball Sunday to accept a full-time position in an Atlanta, Ga., department store.

Paul Dean In Win Over Cubs

Pitches First National League Victory in Two Years

By the Associated Press
PAUL DEAN, younger brother of the famed "Dizzy," made his first start of the season in a New York Giants uniform yesterday and held the Chicago Cubs to four hits as his mates pounded out a 3 to 1 victory in the second game of a doubleheader.

In the opening battle, the Giants scored a 4 to 0 victory behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Lohrman, who was never in trouble.

Dean, dubbed Daffy, walked the first man he faced. This pass, with a single and an infield out, gave the Cubs their only run of the game. After the first inning Dean was invincible. It was his first National league victory in two years.

A home run by pinch hitter Julius Solters with one on in the ninth inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 3 to 4 victory over the Athletics in a night game. The Athletics threatened in their half of the ninth when Chubby Dean, pinch-hitting, doubled and reached third with one out, but Wally Moses popped out and Bob Johnson fanned to end the game.

The Sox went ahead in the sixth after the A's had scored two runs in the first on a home run but Edgar Smith, the Sox hurler, weakened in the eighth and the A's regained the lead until Solters broke up the game.

The Detroit Tigers squeezed into second place in the American league yesterday by defeating the New York Yankees 6-1 while the Boston Red Sox disposed of the threatening Cleveland Indians 9-2.

The Tigers have been a strong club right along, never worse than third since the first week of the season. Yet they never have won more than four games in a row or been regarded as serious pennant contenders by other than their followers.

There Were Reasons

There were good reasons. At the start of the season Charley Gehring was ailing and the whole infield was shaky. Nobody knew how the experiment of Hank Greenberg in the outfield would turn out. The pitching was very promising and above everything else the Yankees, Red Sox and Indians all were considered better clubs.

Tommy Bridges never had his curve breaking any better than yesterday when he held the Yanks to five hits. He would have had a shutout except for an error by Rudy York. And his teammates gave him the help of 11 hits, including three home runs.

The Red Sox defeated the Indians handsomely. They made seven hits off Bob Feller in five innings and gave him his fourth defeat of the season. Jack Wilson kept seven hits by the Indians scattered and had the help of the big bats of Joe Cronin and Ted Williams, each of whom hit home runs with men on base.

Feller wasn't the only wonder; pitcher to fall into a pit yesterday. Bucky Walters, who won nine games before he was beaten, was pounced upon by the Phillies 4-1 for his second straight setback. Boom Boom Beck held the usually red-hot Reds to seven hits, two less than the Phils collected. The defeat widened the distance between Cincinnati and the pace-making Brooklyn Dodgers, who were routed out by Vernon Kennedy, another battered veteran, landed rightside up as the St. Louis Browns again whipped the Washington Senators 5-2. Kennedy gave up nine hits, one permitted only one walk and was effective in the pinches.

Notre Dame Gridders Will Try the Pro Game

Brooklyn—Two former Notre Dame footballers, who turned to coaching after their collegiate careers, are returning to the gridiron. The Dodgers of the National Professional league announced yesterday that signed contracts have been received from Ed Benior, great tackle of two years ago, and Joe Kuharich, a guard. Benior has been coaching at Thornton Academy, Harvey, Ill., and Kuharich at Vincennes Institute, Albany, N. Y.

Alley Proprietors Elect New Officers

St. Paul—The Bowling Proprietors' association of America, in its national convention, last night elected Harry G. Allen, San Francisco, president, and selected Louisville, Ky., as the site for the 1941 convention.

Other officers elected: E. W. Lins, Cleveland, secretary; Harold Allen, Detroit, treasurer, and Harry R. Fensler, St. Louis, commissioner. Vice presidents included J. Pritchard, Indianapolis.

BALK IN BASKETBALL TOO
Denver—New sport in the Rocky Mountains region is burro basketball. Played in a manner similar to regulation basketball, except that the players ride burros, college students say the game is "great."

An added handicap is an electric "prodding" iron that the up-pire wields. Whenever a player finds himself in a position to make a basket unmolested, the "umpire" nudges the burro with static electricity, and the results are upsetting.

ACROSSE—Steve Tomich, who had held LaCrosse to two runs and three hits in the first seven innings, went to pieces in the eighth and allowed LaCrosse to score three runs for a 5-3 victory over Appleton in Wisconsin State league play here Tuesday night. The Papermakers again outhit their hosts, this time 7-6.

Lefty Johnson, LaCrosse hurler, registered his seventh decision in league play, compared with one defeat. He went all the way for the winners.

Appleton scored in the first inning on a walk to Tom Hawk, a single by Ray Malewig, a passed ball, and a fly to right field by Hoffken. The invaders got another in the fourth on three straight hits.

LaCrosse bunched two runs in the sixth and got three in the eighth.

Appleton threatened in the ninth when Murphy Malattia led off with triple and Glenn Aronson has hit by pitched ball. Johnson retired the side without a run scoring, however.

FONDY STOPPED

Fond du Lac—The Wisconsin Rapids White Sox snapped Fond du Lac's five game winning streak with five runs in the fourth inning to beat the Panthers, 5 to 4, in a Wisconsin State league battle here before 1,500 Tuesday night. Umpire McCall called the game in the seventh because of rain. Johnny Rordian allowed the Panthers two hits. The Panthers scored three times in the sixth without a hit.

Girls Volleyball Teams at Y.M.C.A. Complete Schedule

The Tuesday evening business girl's gym class at the Y. M. C. A., under the direction of Miss George Kronschnabel, concluded its volleyball season and schedule last evening when Captain Alice Rettler's team defeated the team captained by Peggy Heinritz for the championship.

The league was different in that it had two teams of equal strength, each team consisting of 15 players. The teams engaged in three contests during the course of the evening, with each contest going 15 minutes. The team securing the greatest number of points during this period was declared the winner. The league season was spread over four months and started Feb. 1. The Rettler team won 14 games and lost 12 while the Heinritz team won 12 and lost 14.

Members on the championship team were Captain Alice Rettler, Billie Kleiser, Marge Doepker, Elvira Kronschnabel, Helen Krueger, Leone Nassen, Bernice Steggen, Dorothy Vonck, Betty Rettler, Gladys Stoldt, Helen Boettcher, Marge Meyer, Dorothy Lindauer, Ted Dinko and Helen Schelske. The members on the losing team were Captain Peggy Heinritz, De-

Fifth Ward Team Ties for Second In Junior League

Len Schipferling Fans 16 Batters but Loses 5 To 4 Decision

Junior Boys League
Standings	W	L
First Ward Reds	2	0
Second Ward Blues	2	1
Fifth Ward Browns	2	1
Fourth Ward Blacks	0	2
Third Ward Greens	0	2

Menasha—Fifth ward Browns climbed into a tie for second place in the Junior Boys league standings Tuesday afternoon when they humbled the previously unbeaten Second ward Blues 5 to 4. The defeat toppled the Blues from first place and left the defending champions, First ward Reds, alone in first place.

Len Schipferling of the Blues struck out 16 players and walked two while allowing seven hits but was defeated because of poor support. Lingnoffski, pitching for the Fifth ward, fanned five, walked 10, and allowed nine hits but was given errorless support.

The Blues opened with a run in the third when R. Zielinski and W. Dorow walked and Baldauf singled Zielinski home. They added a run in the fifth after two were out when Baldauf doubled, L. Schipferling singled, and Baldauf scored on a wild pitch.

Fans But Reached First

The Fifth ward scored a run in the fifth inning even though Schipferling struck out five men in the inning. Griesbach was the first to fan but went to first when the catcher missed the ball. He stole second and third. Burkhardt and DesJarlais fanned as did Wolf but the latter got to first on another passed ball as Griesbach scored. Suess fanned to end the inning.

The Fifth ward added three runs in the sixth to take the lead. Finch walked, Brethauer singled, Lingnoffski singled, Griesbach walked, and Burkhardt singled the third run home. The Second ward tied the score in the seventh when Dorow and Baldauf walked. Schipferling forced Dorow at third and Kluba walked to fill the bases. Cisek drove in two runs with a double.

The winning run was scored in the ninth when Burkhardt singled and stole second and third. DesJarlais fanned but Kluba, catching his first game, threw wild to first base and Burkhardt scored the winning run.

Thursday morning the Third ward will play the First ward and Thursday afternoon the Fourth and Fifth wards will clash.

Day School Prepares For Summer Session

Menasha—Preparations for the summer session of Winnebago Day school are being made now, according to Richard H. Bell, director of the school. The summer session will consist of a reading clinic and a nursery school. Special equipment is being added for the session and a play yard is being constructed for the nursery school.

The summer session will open June 24 and will continue for six weeks. The reading clinic will be conducted by Mr. Bell and Miss Janice Thompson while Miss Gertrude Wendt will conduct the nursery school.

Enrollments still will be accepted in either department of the summer session.

Three Falcons Hit Over .400 Mark for First Six Contests

Stinski, Omar, Kozlowski Lead Fox Valley League Team in Hitting

Menasha—Three members of the Menasha Falcons baseball team are hitting the ball over the .400 mark according to the percentages at the end of six games while four more have collected .300 averages or better.

Manager Badger Nadoiney has used 21 players in games so far but will have to cut his squad to 18 for next Sunday's contest at Oshkosh. Because so many of the early games were rained out, the league player limit has not been put into force yet.

Although the Falcons have won only two games and lost four, they have been outscored by only a narrow margin of 34 runs to 31. They have collected 53 hits in 208 at-bats for a .254 team average. Opponents have counted 56 hits in 210 at-bats for a .267 average, largely accounted for by Kaukauna's 21 hits and 16 runs in one tilt.

Leading the team in hitting is F. Stinski with a .444 average on four hits in nine attempts. Syl Omar has three hits in seven attempts for a .428 average and Herbert Kozlowski has 12 hits in 28 attempts for a .428 average. H. Stutzkowski, J. Nadoiney, Knoll, and F. Kolakowski.

Three League Games

Of the six games played, three have been league encounters in which the Falcons won one and lost two. They have a similar record in non-league competition. The averages of the individual players follow:

	AB	R	H	Pct.
Stinski	9	2	4	.444
Omar	7	1	3	.428
Kozlowski	12	0	5	.416
Stutzkowski	14	3	5	.357
Knoll	15	4	5	.333
J. Nadoiney	3	0	1	.333
F. Kolakowski	20	5	6	.300
Paulowski	21	2	6	.286
Magalski	15	2	4	.267
J. Kolakowski	19	5	5	.263
Sheleski	14	1	3	.214
Berry	16	3	3	.187
B. Nadoiney	12	2	2	.167
Britzke	7	0	1	.143

Seven other members of the squad have been at bat a total of 24 times without any hits.

Defer Election Of Officers for Rod and Gun Club

Delegate to State Conservation Congress Gives Report

Neenah—Election of officers of the Twin City Rod and Gun club which was scheduled at a meeting last night at the Elks hall, Menasha, was deferred until July 13 because of the lack of a quorum.

S. K. Seeber, Neenah, secretary of the club and Winnebago county delegate to the recent meeting of state conservation officials and sportsmen at Madison, outlined the work done at the Oshkosh and Madison sessions. Francis Landis was named to head a committee to make plans for a picnic to be held in July at Stroebe's island for members and friends. President Clarence Anderson reported on the work being done in providing for a rifle range to teach safe handling of firearms to children, and it also was reported that the club had interested the government in construction of a fishway on one of the Twin City dams and that the matter soon will be investigated. The bird committee reported that pheasants have been hatched from the eggs received from the state.

Reward Brings Results
The recent action of the club in posting a $25 reward for the apprehension and conviction of persons violating fishing laws has taken effect for several hundred feet of set lines and not have been confiscated and violators caught and arrested, it was reported.

Louis Ellinger, who was named to investigate pollution of water by paper mills, reported that he had contacted officials of the various mills and that those mills not connected with the sewerage system were ready to do so. He reported that the state board of health claimed there was nothing poisonous in the water to kill or harm fish.

Following the business meeting, Thomas Rogers, Neenah, showed colored motion pictures of a recent national rifle shooting contest at Camp Perry, Ohio, and moose hunting in Canada.

Why Go On Just Wishing?

YOU'VE been looking and thinking and wishing long enough. Why don't you come down... pick up a new Nash—and drive it home? Forget about price (chances are your present car cost more). Just get in and enjoy yourself. Discover the amazing difference in that Manifold-Sealed engine! Get away of 15 to 50 MPH in 12.9 seconds, high gear. Performance that never varies with the weather. Discover how much better a Nash is built! Listen to the quiet of better engineering. See what makes it so. The 7-bearing crankshaft instead of 3 or 4. The double frame chassis. Oversize hydraulic brakes. Extra lift in essential parts: 300 to 400 more pounds (than small cars) for longer life and safety. Then—look at that price below: These differences have doubled the Nash on the road this year. Come down. Drive it—compare it—price it—and you'll drive home 1940's great automobile value.

Observe Children's Day at Services at Church in Shiocton

Shiocton—Children's day was observed at the Congregational church Sunday morning. The church was decorated for the occasion and the following program was presented:

Call to worship, "This Is God's Day," James Spoehr; hymn, congregation; responsive reading, "Jesus and the Children," offertory: recitation, Kay Payton; decoration of the cross and song, "Jesus Loves Me," primary department.

"The Christian's Ladder of Life" round by round under the flower bedecked cross. Each step was interpreted with a Bible story or song. The first step was "Trust" with the story of "Christ and the Lilies" by Joan Locke, and a duet, "Our Father's Care," by Dorothy Mae Payton and June Scott; second step, "Love," with recitations by Lilian Spoehr, Jean Thompson and Lorna Mae Steede and solo by Betty Lou Nabbefeldt; third step, "Obedience," story of Daniel by James Bunnell; fourth step, "Helpfulness," story of the lame man by Jean Locke; fifth step, "Courage," recitation by Lauren Spoehr and Jerry Groth; sixth step, "Loyalty," song, "Stand Up for Jesus," girls' chorus; seventh step, "Service," story of "Jesus Serving" by Donna Mae Spoehr. The service was closed with the hymn, "Tell Me the Story of Jesus," sung by all.

At the regular meeting of the Odd Fellows Monday evening a social gathering was conducted after the business session. The wives of the Odd Fellows, the Rebekahs and their husbands were extended an invitation. Cards, dominoes and Chinese checkers were played, followed by a pot luck supper.

Chrysler Loses in Compensation Test

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—The Chrysler corporation lost in Ingham circuit court today its challenge of the right of its employees to receive unemployment benefits while they were idle during a labor dispute in Chrysler's Detroit plants last fall.

Payment of benefits has been held up pending court actions.

Judge Leland W. Carr upheld the finding of Referee Charles Robinson of the Michigan unemployment compensation commission that benefits should be paid to employees of all the Chrysler Detroit plants except those of the Dodge main, Dodge truck and Dodge force units where disputes were actively in progress. The other plants were unable to operate after the dispute closed the "key" Dodge main unit.

Involved in the court fight is nearly $2,000,000 in benefits for some 33,000 workers made idle by the 54-day dispute.

Insurance Men Will Gather at Milwaukee

Father's Day Gifts This Year Intended to Brighten Up Dad

BY ADELAIDE KERR

New York—(A)—There's a campaign afoot to brighten up father. The makers of his clothes and accessories think he's been looking too drab. So, as Father's Day gifts, they've launched a lot of tricks to put more color in his life.

They began with his sports clothes. To top his bathing trunks when he is lounging on the beach, there's a new bloused terry cloth shirt with a drawstring waistline, copied from a Mexican peon's garment. It comes in gay reds, blues and greens.

To replace the towel he's likely to drape around his neck after a tennis match, there are new mufflers—white terry cloth this time, banded with red, green or blue. New sports shirts for father are made of an open work mesh weave or of washable gabardine (rayon and wool) in such colors as blue, green and tan.

There's color in new sports shoes that have cork-filled platform soles and contrasting colored uppers.

His sports gloves have been air-conditioned and streamlined for comfort and ease. New golf gloves have fingers cut in half, thumbs removed and backs perforated. Smartest are capeskin or pigskin.

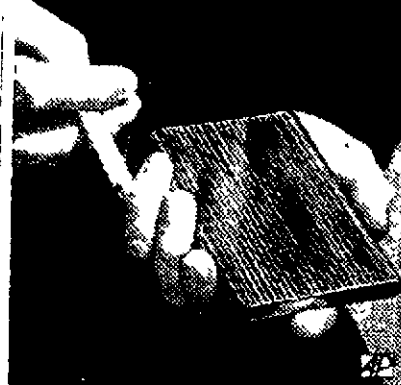

Father's office clothes have been brightened and smartened too. Foulard ties come in livelier colors and the best are splashed with small figures. Some of the new ones are polka - dotted to match a foulard hat band that drapes one of the softer brown cocooned straws that are growing in popularity. Add to these, hobby sports ties printed with riding crops, fishing tackle and what not.

Something new in shirts for the father who works through the summer is one with a collar cut low in front, but higher on the sides and in the back. That's done to keep it from wilting in the heat.

Father's jeweled accents have been cut with a new smart simplicity. Oblong cuff links of smoky quartz or of soft blue or pale green enamel (to match a shirt) are barred with just enough platinum or gold to give them a rich look. Smartest dinner studs are of square-cut onyx, banded with diamonds.

Gold bill and tie clips follow starkly modern designs—the stylized propeller of a plane or smoothly

Ribbed cigarette case of engine-turned gold.

Thumbless air-conditioned golf glove.

Soft blue enamel cuff links barred in diamonds.

The silks prints and flannels still make father's smartest dressing gowns.
